THREAT TO KILL CAPTIVES IS MADE BY CHINESE BANDITS IN KIDNAPING

Governments Make An Absolute Demand On Chinese Government For Release of All.

Pekin, China, May 8.—Foreign prisoners of the Chinese bandits in Shantung will be killed after three days unless Government troops cease firing, according to a message sent from the outlaw's camps by Miss Minnie MacFaddyen, one of the women released.

Through Miss MacFaddyen and a few others who were captured and later freed, Robert P. Scripps, American Newspaper publisher obtained the first description of what occurred after the hostages had been removed from the wrecked Pekin express and hustled away into the hills.

Miss MacFaddyen, accompanied by Miss Lucy A. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made her way back from the camp with great difficulty, after being turned loose wearing a Chinese woman's garment. Refugees report they were not harmed by the bullets and that although firing was heard no bullets came near where the prisoners were kept.

Washington, May 8.—The United States and other leading powers have demanded of the Chinese government ransom of Americans and other foreigners held captive by Chinese bandits, the State Department announced today.

This demand was made by American Minister Schurman and other [illegible] Pekin, who decided at a meeting today on this and other steps.

The ransom asked by the bandits is reported to be $[illegible],000.

Schurman and other diplomats also are making strongest possible representations to the Chinese government, demanding immediate dispatch of punitive forces against the bandits to rescue the foreigners and punish the bandits.

Pekin, May 8.—The foreign legations have sent an ultimatum to the Chinese government, demanding release of all prisoners held by the Shantung bandits.

"Free all foreigers immediately, alive. We do not care what methods are used to free them," is the message sent by the government.

Peking, May 8.—The Chinese government has ordered the governor of Shantung to concede the demand of the bandits and obtain the immediate release of all foreigners who were kidnaped. The governor is ordered to pay the ransom, if necessary.

GOVERNOR'S WILLINGNESS TO MAKE A FAIR COMPROMISE SPEEDS ALL OF HIS PROGRAM TOWARDS ULTIMATE SUCCESS

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—Governor Pinchot's legislative program, which includes practically all important measures that have been before the legislature for consideration this session, had reached a point today where substantial success was in sight.

Oppositions which have loomed up again and again durinng all the months of the session still exist today but were believed to be without the strength to do more than delay the Governor's measures.

Objection to the Administrative code were to a large extent mollified last night by Pinchot's willingness to compromise. Critics of the code were given to understand that the Administration would not quibble on most of the amendments inserted by the Senate Finance Committee.

Following the hearing on the code tonight, the measure will be brought back to the Senate and rushed through. There was no indication today that there would be strong opposition to it in the Senate now that the Governor has consented to most of the Senate's amendments.

CLARK-HARRIS

Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock in the West Side M. E. parsonage Russell Clark of Philipsburg and Miss Mary Harris of Morrisdale were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. William L. Armstrong, who used the ring ceremony. They were attended by the groom's father and mother, Mr and Mrs. Brook Clark. Also by Mrs. Helen Butler and son, Blair. The happy young couple will begin their life together in Philipsburg. Best wishes are extended from their many friends.

"BILL" ALEXANDER TELLS HOUSE HE HAS LOST HIS FAITH IN GIFFORD PINCHOT

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—Opposition to the two hundred fifty thousand dollars, asked by the Governor for law enforcement developed in the House today when the General Appropriation Bill came up for vote.

Marcus of Allegheny asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment striking out the two hundred fifty thousand dollars.

McVicar of Allegheny, Administrative leader in the House objected. Marcus then moved the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole for the purpose of considering an amendment.

Alexander of Delaware violently attacked the Governor's efforts to have two hundred fifty thousand dollars restored while the bill was in Appropriations Committee. He accused Governor Pinchot of influencing the Committee by offering political appointments. Alexander was interrupted again and again by points of order but continued his attack on the Administration. When asked why he had changed his position on the two hundred fifty thousand dollars, asked of the Governor, Alexander shouted: "Because I have lost confidence in the Governor."

BOGGS BOY SHOOTS SELF, INFLICTING A FATAL WOUND

Sixteen Year Old Boy Unfortunate Victim of Revolver Which He Used to Hunt Crows.

DEATH ACCIDENT

Gilbert Gulich, a 16-year-old Boggs township boy, who made his home with his grandmother Mrs. A. M Lumadue, is dead as the result of a shooting accident which occurred last evening about 7 o'clock.

Young Gulich, accompanied by a couple of boys about his own age sons of Walter Gallaher, were on the Gallaher place attempting to shoot some crows. Gulich had a .22-calibre revolver with him, which was accidentally discharged while he was handling it, the bullet from same entering one of his eyes.

The injured lad was taken into the Gallaher home and Dr. G. B. Shivery of Woodland, summoned, but the injury was such that medical skill was of no avail and death followed shortly after the shooting. The bullet entered the eye and lodged in the skull.

MOOSE WILL BEGIN ERECTION OF TWO STORY BLDG. MAY 15

The local Loyal Order of Moose have finally decided to begin the erection of their new building on third lot on Market street. The plans originally called for a three story building but the bids for the erection of the proposed building were so high that the lodge decided to modify their plans and instead of a three story building make it but two stories.

It is expected that work on the building will be started by May 15th or thereabouts.

The Postoffice Department has a ten year lease on one of the first floor rooms in the new building for the Clearfield post office.

Yellow Dogs Haled Into Court Plead That They Are Worthless

For the benefit of some impecunious creditor on this side the mountain we print the following reference to the Yellow Dogs taken from Monday's Altoona Mirror:

"The Order of Yellow Dogs bobbed up in court this morning, in an attachment suit brought by T. C. Hare attorney for J. B. Fluke and Sons, attaching any funds that may be due Robert Walters, the Old Home Week contractor, from the Yellow Dogs. The Dogs claim that Walters failed to carry out his contract to provide them with a float for the Old Home Week celebration in Altoona, and they therefore owe him nothing.

Attorney Robert W. Smith declared that the Order of Yellow Dogs had taken the vows of absolute financial worthlessness and that while they had bones in the Kennel, yet there was no marrow. Mr. Hare said, that he would be satisfied when the order filed its answers."

JUDGE CUMMINS OF WASHINGTON, PA., PACKS A WALLOP

Washington, Pa., May 7.—The most drastic sentences for the violation of liquor laws in the history of Washington County, were imposed today on nine members of the so-caled bootleg ring in Criminal Court. All pleaded guilty to illegal transportation and selling. Fines ranging from $1000 to $1699 with jail sentences of seven months to two years and four months, were imposed. In addition the defendants were not only assessed the court costs, but also the cost of the special investigation under way for four months.

Meanwhile seven Wheeling men indicted for rum-running between Pittsburgh and the West Virginia border, failed to appear in court today and forfeited cash bail totalling $20,500. They gave the names of George H. Fuestel, John Brown, D. M. Goldberg Paul McGrew, Ray Montgomery, Tony Sarris and Nick Saleno.

A touch of melodrama was given the court proceedings as the nine Washington men faced the bar, when Judge Erwin Cummins announced that immediately prior to entering court he had been handed an anonymous letter mailed in Washington, in which various threats were made against him if he did not show leniency to the defendants. The judge also was told that failure to impose light sentences would result in his political death. With scarcely suppressed anger Judge Cummins declared such threats only confirmed him in his determination to see that all defendants guilty of violation of the liquor laws were treated alike.

The men fined and sentenced follow: J. Ray Nease, $1699; two years fourmonths; John Burr, $1369, two years four months; George F. Smith $1480, two years four months; Peter Filos, $1277, two years four months; George Alexis, $1764, two years four months; Samuel Hirsch-

RED CROSS NURSE MAY BE WITHDRAWN FROM HOUTZDALE

Unless that Community Is Successful Wednesday Evening In Raising Funds to Continue.

FUNDS ARE LOW

The Clearfield chapter of the American Red Cross is so hard pushed for funds by reason of the smaller number to enroll at the annual roll call drive that they are forced very much against their will to curtail their activities during the coming months. Heretofore the Red Cross paid a part of the salary of the School Nurse but this being impossible the School Board now has to meet all of that expense, as the wonderful work being done by the school nurse makes her retention absolutely necessary.

The Clearfield chapter will have funds sufficient to maintain Miss Witherow the local A. R. C. Nurse but will be unable to give its customary support to outoftown communities in the county and to that end Miss Lockert, the nurse in charge at outzdale, will have to be dropped from the rolls unless the people of that community come to the rescue and provide the necessary funds The wonderful work being done by the Red Cross public health service is so much worth while that the citizens of Houtzdale have called a "town meeting" for Wednesday evening to discuss ways and means for the raising of sufficient funds to maintain the nurse and service in that section. The people of the Houtzdale section are loyal to their community and can be depended upon to do the right thing at all times and it is expected they will provide for the retention of Miss Lockert.

MILLS, CLASS RUSH LEADER, ON WAY TO CHICAGO TO TESTIFY

Akron, Ohio, May 8.—Joseph Allen Mills, leader of the class rush at Northwestern University in 1921, in which Leighton Mount is alleged to have been killed, today is enroute to Chicago to tell investigators his version of the hazing.

Before leaving Akron in custody of two Asistant District Attorneys, Mills said his reason for keeping under cover since the hazing probe started was that "he was kicked out of the University and Fraternity." "I didn't want the publicity," he said.

FIVE YOUNG WOMEN GET DIPLOMAS AS GRADUATE NURSES

The Commencement exercises of Clearfield Hospital Training School for Nurses held in the Clearfield High School auditorium last evening was well attended and a success in every way. Following the exercises at the High School a reception was tendered thegraduates at the Nurses Home, which was also a decidedly pleasing function and was largely attended by the friends of the hospital and the Class of 1923.

Those receiving diplomas last evening were:

Mary Wolf Baker, Maytown, Pa.
Celestine V. Kennedy, Ridgway.
Nell B. Thompson, Bigler.
Mabel N. Stronberg, Johnsonburg.
Rachel M. Price, Mahaffey.

Prof. Will Grant Chambers, Dean of Penn State College, delivered an excellent address to the graduating class, which was very favorably commented upon by all fortunate enough to hear it.

Girl Scout Troop 8 enjoyed a hike to the Moose Creek reservoir Saturday.

SLASHES AUTO TOP AND TIRES WHILE OWNER IS AT SHOW

There was a big crowd of people in town yesterday and while they were orderly and well behaved in the main, there was at least one miscreant in the outfit. That fellow took his knife and slashed to ribbons the top of the automobile of Harry Schiefer, of Hyde, which was parked near the corner of Second and Cherry streets In addition to slashing the top the knife wielder also destroyed a tire with his knife thrusts.

The slashing was done through pure devilishness and if the perpetrator of the outrage can be located he will be made to pay dearly for his dirty work.

AN ABLE SPEAKER IS HEARD AT MEETING OF COMMERCIALITES

The circus being in town did not stop our busy, public-spirited organization, the Commercial Club, from meeting last evening at the usual time and place. Considerable business was transacted and directors were nominated for the election at the next meeting.

Public co-operation was asked by Mr. Fletcher representing the American Railways Association of which his company the Pennsylvania, is a member. A concerted effort for improved railway accommodations for the coming peak of the business year is being made by all leading roads.

The winners of the boys' marble shooting contest held last Saturday under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and for which the club furnished the prizes were announced. Edwin Flegal and F. Fletcher, two of the prize winners, were present as guests of the club for dinner. Robert Shull, the other prize winner, missed, evidently didn't read the Progress last evening. Sam Warner introduced the boys and gave their biographies. A marble shooting contest open to all members of the club was announced. Walt Flegal challenging all comers.

President Frantz then introduced Mr. J. D. Gill, of the personnel department of the Atlantic Refining Co. at Philadephia. Mr. Gill gave a really scholarly talk on the present economic situation as revealed by the scientific research on the subject by his company. He described and explained the fundamental principles underlying trade booms and prosperity waves as well as the reaction phases as shown in the periods of depression. Without a doubt the presentation was one of the most instructive the club has heard in a long time and merited the intense interest which was given it by every member present. Tony Gorman, thru whose personal efforts the guest of the evening was secured, is to be commended for favoring the club with a speaker of the calibre of Mr. Gill.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO LAST NIGHT PAINFULLY HURT

Little Miss Barbara Wilson, 5 year old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Cecil F. Wilson, was seriously and painfully bruised last evening when she was knocked down and run over by a Ford Coupe driven by Robert H. Lynn, of South Second street.

Mr. Lynn was driving down Second street about 5 o'clock. The circus had just left out and traffic was heavy on the street. He was driving at a moderate rate of speed and very careful on account of the traffic. As he approached the corner of Walnut street, Mr. Lynn noticed a bunch of children waiting to cross and fearing some of them might take a notion to dash out into the street he kept his eye on them particularly. Suddenly and without a moment's warning he was confronted by the little Wilson girl running out from behind a parking car directly in the path of his machine. It was simply impossible

Big Storm, Raging As A Blizzard, Culminates In Snow Fall In No. Dakota

Chicago, May 8.—A storm, assuming proportions of a blizzard in some localities, swept over the northwest today seriously hampering spring wheat and other crops. At noon several inches of snow had fallen in central Wisconsin.

Snow was reported in St. Paul and Bismark, N. D. The storm reached as far south as Waterloo, Iowa.

Washington, May 8.—A spring cold wave sweeping out of Alaska which will hold the entire eastern and western half of the continent in its grip until Wednesday was forecasted by the Weather Bureau today. Frosts will be general as far south as Kentucky and Tennessee.

The storm was centered over the lake region and freezing temperatures and snow have been reported from Minneapolis, St. Paul and LaCrosse, Wisconsin and points in Illinois and Iowa.

The storm area is moving rapidly east and colder weather will hit the east tonight. The cold wave will last three or four days, it was predicted.

Former Chicago Tribune Reporter Gives Graphic Description Of Chinese Bandit Treatment Of Women

Shanghai, May 7.—Lloyd Lehrbas, reporter on the "China Press" of Shanghai, foremrly of Pocatello, Idaho, and of the Chicago "Tribune," who escaped from the bandits who held up the Peking express on the Shantung border, arrived today with the first eye-witness story of the affair.

Women beaten, shoved ahead as they lagged behind, spat upon by the bandits and some of them eventually left where they dropped in their tracks as the marauders set a terrific pace of over the hilly country, was one of the pictures drawn by the American newspaperman, who himself escaped clad only in his pajamas.

Driven Away in Bare Feet

Lehrbas said he was in the hands of the brigands for three hours With the others captured on the train men and women first of them clad only in their night clothes as they were routed from their berths, he was driven away from the scene of the holdup in his bare feet, while the guards about the party continually menaced them with revolvers and rifles

The captives were driven forward at high speed over rough country. Women, whose pace was slower than that of the men, were shoved ahead as they fell behind, beaten when they could travel no faster and spat upon as they fell alongside the trail worn out.

Husbands of the helpless women were forced to leave their wives where they had fallen or were driven on ahead as the women dropped to the rear, unable to keep up with the main party despite the beatings administered by their guards.

The bandit who was guarding Lehrbas, the newspaperman said, was laden with loot wrapped in a sheet snatched from a berth in the train. He dropped some of his booty and as he stooped to recover that Lehrbas said he crawled away into the darkness and hid in the tall grass.

Lehrbas gave the names of the following as being in the party of which he was a member as the bandits drove them into the hills:

Children in Bandits' Hands

Major Robert Allen, U. S. A. Medical Corps; Major Roland Pinger, U. S. A. Ordnance Department; their wives and Roland Pinger, 8 years old, who is still a captive with his father, and Edward Pinger, 4, who later was released with his mother; Robert Allen, son of Major Allen, still held captive; J. A. Hinley and C Jacobson.

Lehrbas says he saw a white man, who had been traveling in a third class carriage of the train, shot dead by the brigands.

All the passengers lost everything they had with them, except the night clothes in which they slept when the bandits raided the train.

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

CHINESE METHODIST CHURCH PLANNED FOR PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, May 7. (United Press.)—A Chinese Methodist Episcopal church will be erected in the heart of Philadelphia Chinatown this fall according to Miss Eliza Worl, treasurer of the Chinese mission.

Two thousands five hundred dollars has been raised among the Chinese themseves for a site of the new church.

The Chinese church will have some features quite distinct from other Methodist Episcopal churches. The auditorium will accommodate 400 worshippers and services will be conducted by Rev. Henry Ko, a Chinese minister who serves his congregation without salary.

Refreshments are served in the Chinese church, rooms on the second floor of the new church building will be fitted for this purpose. Another novel feature of the church building will be its Sunday school. Each class will consist of one teacher and one pupil so that the teacher can give the pupil full time in instructions.

Rooms for guests who come from and remain in the city are to be arranged in the church.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Henry Ford is the richest man in the world.

Wall Street came to this conclusion when the Ford Motor Company made public its financial condition as of Feb 28, 1923, on Saturday last.

The statement, as filed with the Massachusetts Commissioner of Corporations in Boston, shows assets of $530,351,939 compared with $400,548,946 the previous year.

It reveals cash on hand of $159,605,687, against $109,282,732 in 1922, an increase of more than $50,000,000

It gives a profit and loss surplus of $359,777,598 compared with $240,478,736 the preceding year.

Net profits, Wall Street estimated, approximated $119,000,000, which is equivalent to more than $690 a share on the 172,465 shares of $100 par value capital stock outstanding, which Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, own outright.

The large expansion of Ford operations is clearly exposed by the report. Accounts payable more than doubled in the twelve months, being $61,488,980, as compared with $33,089,894. Depreciation charges, which were $50,820,307 in 1922, increased to $62,576,257. Security holdings jumped more than $21,000,000 and inventories spared nearly $38,500,000.

Henry Ford, Wall Street reasons, has a total fortune, including his Ford Motor Company holdings, of between $600 000,000 and $750,000,000. It may be even higher.

John D. Rockefeller was the world's richest man, but he has given away more than $1,000,000,000, and probably has not more than $300,000,000 left.

George F Baker of the First National Bank director in many corporations, is well to the top with some $400,000,000.

The magnitude of Henry Ford's fortune may be measured by comparison with the riches of some of his famed predecessors. Andrew Carnegie at one time possessed an estimated fortune of $300,000,000. The John Jacob Astor estate totalled $70,000,000. The Marshall Field estate reached $120,000,000. The J. P. Morgan estate was given as $75,000,000, while the Cornelius Vanderbilt estate was reported as $50,000,000.

And Ford, it must be remembered, started his amazing company only twenty years ago, with a capital stock of $100,000, a factory floor space of 28 acre and an average number of employees 311. Seventeen hundred cars were built the first year. April 7 last it was reported the Ford Motor Company had built more than 6,000,000 automobies and was well into the seventh million.

Compared with Wall Street's present admission that Ford is the modern Croesus, it will be remembered that only two years ago the money powers had the automobile maker, they thought, at their mercy. Ford needed cash, due to constant expansion, and made no bones in saying so.

Wall Street expected Ford to come to New York and beg funds on his bended knees, and the word was passed around he would go back empty handed. Ford had his ear to the ground, so the story goes, and decided to let Wall Street severely alone

Reducing the price of flivvers, he speeded up his factories to capacity and shipped automobiles by the carload to every Ford dealer in the world, and with every consignment went a bill with demand for immediate payment.

The Ford dealers paid—they knew what was best for them—and almost overnight the automobile maker was possessed of some $125,000,000 in cash, which saved the day with millions to spare.

In Class With Steel.

Wall Street also noted, in connection with the Boston statement, that United States Steel, Ford Motor and General Electric lead the great industrial companies in cash and security holdings. United States Steel comes first with some $318,000,000. Ford Motor Company is second and General Electric third, with $168,000,000.

The combined cash and security holdings of these three great companies is around $600,000,000. It is only $10,000,000 short of the aggregate cash reserve of the New York Federal Reserve District, which includes the state of New York, northern New Jersey and parts of Connecticut.

Bankers pointed to the fact that Ford's huge cash balance is despite expenditures for coal lands, water-power sites and branch plant investments, which were all paid for in cash out of current earnings.

For comparison it is interesting to note that for the year ended July 31 1916, the Ford Motor Company had cash on hand of $52,550,771, while profits for the year reached $59,994,118. The report caused a sensation and was regarded as epochal in the automobile industry.

THREAT TO KILL

bandits in Shantung province, China, was discussed today at a conference between Secretary Hughes and Acting Secretary Davis of the War Department.

Afterward Mr. Davis announced that the War Department was ready to back up with armed forces any decision reached by the State Department or by the council of foreign ambassadors in Peking.

The council of envoys of the various governments represented in Peking is expected to meet tomorrow to discuss a course of action.

It was intimated that a determination on the part of the Peking council contemplating concerted action by the ofreign powers against the bandits would cause no surprise here.

Under the final protocol, signed in September, 1901, by the governments which participated in the expedition, an international military force has been maintained in China for the purpose of "keeping open communication between the capital (Peking) and the sea."

Big Force Available.

In accordance with this agreement the United States has at present a force of 35 officers and 888 men stationed at Tientsin under command of Brigadier General William D. Connor Official government statistics show that Belgium maintains one officer and 14 men at Peking; the British, 31 officers and 944 men; the French, 24 officers and 1,050 men; Italy, one officer and 35 men; the Japanese, 59 officers and 1,082 men, and the Netherlands, one officer and 76 men. There is also at Peking one battalion of United States marines stationed as legation guard.

A composite military force of this nature, in the opinion of military experts, would be more than sufficient to cope with the bandits in Shantung It is also pointed out that the mobilization of such a force would have a decided salutary effect upon brigand and irregular forces in China and probably would be of material assistance to the Peking government in solving its difficulties and ridding the country of such disturbing elements.

It is believed that any treaty provision under which foreign troops at stationed in China would not operate to restrict any concerted military action should the Chinese central government prove impotent to cope with the bandits, because, it is pointed out, under the general principles of international law governments are free to resort to such action when the responsible government has failed to maintain the security of life and property.

Harding's Order Enough.

An order by President Harding, in the opinion of State and War Department officials, would be sufficient to start the American troops in China in pursuit of the bandits, to secure the release of the American captives. Naturally, however, the Washington government first would ascertain more definitely the ability of Peking to deal effectively with the situation

An official list of Americans "believed to have been" on the train held up by bandits was reported by Minister Schurman, at Peking, and Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham, at Shanghai, as follows:

Larry Lehrbas, L. C. Solomon, Leon Friedman, J. A. Henley, Miss Lucy Aldrich and maid, Miss McFadden, Colonel and Mrs. Pfuger and two sons, Major and Mrs. Allen and son; Mr. Levy, Robert Scripps, J. B. Powell, Miss Schonberg and Allen Child.

Five Women Free.

While the situation was under discussion further official advices regarding the incident received at the State Department, confirmed the report that Miss Lucy Aldrich, Miss McFadden and Miss Schonberg had been released.

The department's advices also said that Lehrbas was reported to have escaped.

Arizona Peopled Ages Ago.

There are ruins in Arizona that prove beyond a doubt that it was peopled generations before the pyramids of Egypt were erected. Of course outside of these ruins we know nothing of these prehistoric tribes, but the evidence of their occupation are with us.

The near fatal shooting incident at the Shaw pool room last Friday evening serves to emphasize the truth of a statement made in these columns about a month ago that there was a lot of promiscuous gun toting in this vicinity. In this particular instance it was a colored man who had a gun in his pocket. On a former similar happening it was a young man of our own color. Color makes no difference. Young men are still toting guns. It is hard for the officers to locate these fellows. Let every man who counts himself a man help the officers to ferret out the smart Alex and the coward who totes a gun.

It is generally conceded that during the last fifty years the railroad men of this country have perfected a system of transportation that is one of the wonders of the world. No other country possesses anything that can approach it either in efficiency or magnitude.

These railroads have a value of approximately twenty billion dollars and a sufficient mileage of single track to encircle the world over ten times. Over them are transported annually more than thirty million passengers and 950,000,000 tons of merchandise, of which one and a quarter billion dollars' worth is constantly in transit.

For this transportation there are required 65,000 locomotives, sufficient to make a solid train of locomotives stretching from New York to Chicago; 2,500,000 freight and passenger cars; 1,650,000 employes and 125,000,000 tons of coal. For labor the railroads pay annually $2,750,000,000. Dividends amount to about $400,000,000 annually.

These results have been brought about by men who have made railroading their life-work, who do nothing but run railroads. Certain radicals and demagogues are now advocating taking this splendid system of transportation out of the hands of the men who have made it what it is and placing it in the hands of politicians, to be run by political hangers-on and jobhunters.

We tried this experiment during the war and for a period of twenty-six months it cost the people of the United States one billion seven hundred million dollars ($1,700,000,000), over four times more money than it took to construct the Panama Canal. Perhaps that was all right during the war. We were willing to make sacrifices then.

Now, then, Mr. Taxpayer, are you willing to foot this bill in time of peace? Are you willing to have your income tax raised forty or fifty per cent in order to let the politicians have the fun of discovering whether or not they can run the railroads? You are the one that does the paying and you are the only one that can stop the politicians from shaking down this nice, juicy plum of Federal patronage, this vast system of transportation, on whose proper management depend the safety and welfare of the whole country.

What do you say, Mr. Taxpayer? Are you going to turn over the railroads to the politicians?

If not, see that your United States Senators and Congressmen hear from you without delay. Let them know how you feel on this important subject. If you fail to act now, you will have no right to complain later on that the politicians have put one over on you.

DUBOIS YOUNG PEOPLE WED HERE

Clyde Hatten and Miss Nelle C. Brown, prominent DuBois young people, motored over to Clearfield this morning and were married by Rev Dr. E. C. Reeve, at the Presbyterian manse.

The attendants were J. R. Osborne and Miss Ethel Hatten, sister of the groom. Mrs. J. R. Osborne was also a member of the wedding party.

After the ceremony and congratulations the newly-weds departed in their automobile for an extended honeymoon trip, while the other members of the wedding party returned home.

GOLD FISH IS CAUGHT IN DUBOIS TANNERY DAM

Considerable interest is being created by a gold fish on display in the window of the DuBois Courier. The gold fish is 8 1-2 inches long, and the lucky fisherman is Donald Davie, who caught it in the Tannery dam, on Saturday. Earl Ross also caught one that is 10 inches long. Quite a few people are wondering how gold fish could get into the Tannery dam. One fellow said that it wasn't a gold fish at all, but a sunburned catfish.

TIME TO PRUNE FRUIT TREES

Average Farm Should Not Be Treated Until Middle of March or April.

Many people deprive themselves of the best results from pruning of their orchard trees by doing it at the wrong season of the year. The injurious effect arising from improper selection of time to do the work, often offsets the good to be gained from the pruning hook or knife.

Of course, where one has a large orchard it is often necessary to commence the work before it would be advisable on smaller plantations because pruning requires time and one might not be able to get through the orchard before it would be too late in the spring.

For large orchards, no choice of time can be made because the pruning of a ten acre orchard would require practically a month's time if ten hours per day were spent in the work. One has to start in the winter in order to get through before the sap commences to rise in the spring.

For the small orchard, however, the average farm orchard of an acre or less in size, the pruning should not be done until from the middle of March to the middle of April, just before the sap commences to rise. If special reasons interfere as to why the work can not be done at this time, then the old adage of "when your knife is sharp and you are so inclined."

Wounds made in the spring, however, just before the sap commences to rise begin healing at once, while wounds made earlier in the season as in December and January start healing several weeks later because the cold drying winds have killed the exposed layers of cells in the growing tissues. Many authorities agree that the time of pruning is not so important as the manner in which it is done. The cuts should be made with a sharp knife or saw and close to the remaining branch. Such cuts heal promptly and thoroughly, while jagged cuts having a stub often will not heal at all no matter at what season of the year they are made.

TO SAVE BORDEAUX MIXTURE

Oregon Experiment Station Finds Addition of Little Sugar Will Preserve Material.

Fruit growers who use bordeaux mixture are well acquainted with the fact that the material that is left in the tank over night, or which for some cause must be left standing for a considerable period, loses its effectiveness. A great deal of waste is occasioned by this instability of bordeaux mixture. But at the Oregon Experiment station it has been found that a little sugar put in the bordeaux mixture will overcome all of the trouble. Bordeaux mixture thus treated can be held an indefinite length of time and used the same as freshly made bordeaux. This method will save the spray for future use when rain or a breakdown prevents the grower from finishing out his tank.

In the course of the investigations it was found that the quantity of sugar to use is one-eighth ounce of ordinary granulated sugar for every pound of copper sulphate used. Too much sugar will cause the copper to dissolve. Dissolve the sugar at the rate of one well rounded, but not heaping, teaspoonful of sugar in one quart of water, and use this solution at the rate of one-half pint for every pound of bordeaux required. In other words, a rounded teaspoonful of sugar dissolved in a quart of water is sufficient for 50 gallons of 4-4-50 bordeaux mixture.

PLEASE TAKE MILK IN AS SOON AS DELIVERED

Many folks are allowing the milk delivered early in the mornings to remain on the porch, many times in the direct rays of the sun. This is bringing complaints about sour milk which could be obviated if the milk was taken in the house and placed where it is cool.

The fact that the milk sours when left in the sun for any length of time is not due to any impurities in the milk, but due to the warming influence of the sun's rays, which will sour milk quicker than placing on a hot stove.

Please arrange to take your milk in as soon as delivered.

The little girl was quickly picked up and carried into her home, where Dr. Waterworth was called to minister to her. The doctor found the little patient suffering from a badly bruised and lacerated face, while one of her shoulders was also badly bruised, but fortunately no bones were broken, it being the opinion of the physician that while the machine passed over her the wheels of the vehicle fortunately missed the body of the child.

The dirt from the street was ground into the little girl's face and she was taken to the hospital this morning for the purpose of having this dirt scraped out and X-ray pictures will also be taken to locate any possible injury not apparent to other examination.

For Pictures.

A picture that does not hang straight is a constant source of annoyance. Here is a way of hanging a small picture to prevent it from slipping. SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick ... and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Curwensville's Own Column

Yesterday was show day at Clearfield and it was astonishing how many men there were in Curwensville that had grandchildren to be taken down to see the elephant and parade in general. Of course the old ducks had no interest in the show, but considered that as long as they were down there they might just as well go in and see the spangled dressed in tights girls perform.

Robinson & Son are the only contracting painters that have advanced a notch over their brush in hand contemporaries. They have added a painting machine and it does its work very satisfactorily. In eight hours time the machine will brush a side of a house as rapidly as eight men can do per hour using a hand brush. They have been working this painting machine for several months now, and not one single complaint has been heard from work by it.

Mr and Mrs. Jack Murphy expect to leave Curwensville early next week for a visit with relatives up in Canada. They expect to remain in the land of the Canuck for several months.

Report is revived that an effort will be made to pave North street and also several hundred feet of County street this summer sometime. This would indeed prove a torture movement and a great expense to those owning ground on the north side of said street, especially All lots from Cemetery street to Filbert street are 195 feet in length, while all those on South Side are only 50 feet in length. There is a very small amount of traffic on this street only by a few unmitigated phools who won't run a machine faster than State street limit and they usually take the west end of North street to show off. We are told that this paving improvement scheme was started by the garage people at the east end of the street, who own or control less than a hundred feet of ground fronting North street. If in their imagination they opine that residents all along North street are going to sign a petition to Council for his work to be done for their especial benefit, why they have another guess coming that's all. If there are any improvements to be made in the street paving direction, Meadow street or Bloomington are the places it should be done, thoroughfare that are used four times to one on North street, and more during the wet and muddy season can be hardly traveled at all. No difference how long or heavy it rains, North street is always impassible by vehicles carrying heavy tonnage. If the garage people want a paved street along that North street line, let them do it as individuals.

Too bad that Curwensville has no established Boy's Scout troop at the present time. A few years ago the town had as good and active a troop as could be found anywhere in the western part of this State. While being in concert the lads did excellent work, and the town was proud of its Scouts. Handed down from one instructor to another, several of whom took no interest in their organization or work, the Scout members became discouraged and finally disbanded altogether. Is there not some resident in Curwensville today who will take an interest in the Boy Scout movement and re-organize the "Old Guard" and give them a general week or two outing in the woods under an instructor who knows all the "tricks of the trade" in Boy Scouting.

If ashes are an incentive of making good dirt roads, then Curwensville ought to have the best to be found in the county.

Many a man is sneaking around in the woods these days. The sound of a carpet beater hurts his ears.

J. R. Way and wife of Constantinople, Turkey, and his mother, Mrs J. C. Way, of Williamsport, are visiting the Gardlocks.

It has been talked around considerable that ere the school term for 1924-25 starts in St. Timothy Catholic church will have a parochial school of their own organized and that the Catholic children heretofore attending the public schools will be transferred to a school of their own. The Progress man up here thought that the rumor appeared sort of unreliable so he went to see Father Lynch, who is a conservative man in both religion and politics, and he informed us that there was nothing to the story whatever, and that his people had never broached the subject of establishing a parochial school in Curwensville and that his congregation were not in a position to do so financially, even tho they over so much wished. He had no complaint to make of the manner in which our public schools were being conducted, and had he it in his power so to do he would compel every child of Catholic parentage in this town and neighborhood to be enrolled and forced to attend the public schools of Curwensville and elsewhere. Father Lynch has made a host of friends during his stay in this town, composed of all denominations, and he is surely what the westerners term a "he-man."

PORTER HARLEY PASSES AWAY

James Porter Harley died at his home on South Fourth street at 7:40 o'clock last evening, after an illness extending over a period of years, as the result of complications arising from heart trouble and hardening of the arteries.

The deceased, who was about 5 years of age, was a painter by trade having been employed by D. W. Spe for many years. He was an expert workman and an upright, honorable man, who lived for his home and those he loved. Quiet and unassuming, he was greatly respected by all who knew him for his sterling worth as a man and a good citizen.

He is survived by his widow and four daughters, Mrs. Catherine Rose Jerry, Edith, Helen and Jane, all at home. His mother, Mrs. James Mitchell, of Curwensville, also survives him.

The funeral will be held from his late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His pastor, Rev. E Roy Hauser, of St. John's Lutheran church, officiating. Interment will be made in Hillcrest cemetery.

Movies Full Of "Hokum" But Producers Hold It Vital To Good Pictures

"Hokum" Is Analyzed as the Old "Melerdramer" Thrill Brought Up to Date—"Robin Hood" Cited as Movie Example.

By ROBERT A. DONALDSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Los Angeles, May 3.—The subject of "hokum" has taken Hollywood by storm.

Everyone is talking about hokum. Peter B. Kyne apparently put it on the map—when he blew off the lid and charged that the movies "are nothing but a lot of hokum."

Nobody is agreed on just what hokum is, but everyone admits that there's lots of it in the pictures. It appears to be the vitamen of the movie game.

For the past ten years the catch phrase of Hollywood has been "The industry is still in its infancy."

Today the catch line has been changed to "There is too much hokum in the movies."

Everett L. Warner, one of the eight Warner brothers, broke into print with it, and under such circumstances the statement is worthy of deep consideration, because if anybody should know about hokum it's the Warner Brothers.

Thomas Ince and Webster, of unabridged fame, both fail to define the term, but Ince at least volunteered the following comment:

Admits Hokum.

"Of course there is hokum in the movies. But it must not be forgotten that there is good hokum and bad hokum." Good hokum Ince modestly intimated, is the kind he produces.

William de Mille, who is rated as something of a psychologist, explained as follows:

"Hokum is anything that will produce a sure-fire, quick emotional reaction. The candle in the and the mortgage on the old homestead are good examples of hokum."

Hokum, then, is nothing more than the old stock-in-trade of the five-ten-and-fifteen cent melodrama.

Hollywood also has discovered that what Mack Sennett has been doing all these years is producing pictures on hokum.

Sennett merely lays hokum on in such thick gobs that it becomes comedy. And, with Ben Turpin as star he is planning to take one of his most vicious pokes at hokum in his next picture, "Where Is My Wandering Boy This Evening."

More Hokum.

"Robin Hood is a masterpiece of noble hokum," recently declared Ted Taylor, former editor of "Camera," and a well known movie columnist. "People go wild over 'Robin Hood,' and only in rare instances do they come to and realize that such counts, castles did not exist in Merrie England, or anywhere else."

But if "Robin Hood" is hokum, the public will probably rise up and cry "Give us more."

Anything, from history down to floating in the moat in heavy armor, can be forgiven for the charm and romance and glorious youth of Doug Fairbank's picture. Like Breda O'Brien's "White Shadows of the South Seas," a veracity is willingly overlooked for the ... work contains

Washington, D. C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. "Robin Hood" is a masterpiece of optical hokum," recently declared Ted Taylor, former editor of "Camera," and a well known movie columnist. "People go wild over 'Robin Hood,' and only in rare instances do they come to and realize that sky scraping castles did not exist in Merrie England, or anywhere else."

But if "Robin Hood" is hokum, the public will probably rise up and cry "Give us more."

Anything, from history down to floating in the moat in heavy armor, can be forgiven for the charm and romance and glorious youth of Doug Fairbanks' picture. Like Frederic O'Brien's "White Shadows in the South Seas," a veracity is willingly overlooked for the 5 fine charm the work contains.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D. C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1529 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You may be a bore or you may not with this propensity. Yet if you control it well you are a stimulating person to have a out. Mother's Cook Book

The man who holds down the ladder at the bottom is frequently of just as much service as the man at the top. The mother in the home who is faithful to her duties is as invaluable as the bread winner outside.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A NICE little company sandwich which is different, and serves with a cup of cocoa or coffee will be enough for light refreshments is

Chicken Salad Rolls.

Mix one cupful of cooked chicken one cupful of chopped celery and one half cupful of chopped green olives with three tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing, seasoning highly with salt and cayenne. Cut small rolls into halves, remove the soft centers, spread with softened butter and fill with the salad; press the halves together or serve open with the tops garnished to suit the taste.

For the Cooky Jar.

Take one cupful of shortening, two cupfuls of sugar, two eggs, one cupful of milk, three and one-half cupfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of flavoring, a little salt and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix, chill and roll as thin as possible. Sprinkle the tops with sugar just before going into the oven. For variety cut with a doughnut cutter sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and add three halves of almonds, point to the center at equal distances. These are called sand tarts.

Raisin Butter Sandwiches.

Soften butter by working it with a spatula or wooden spoon until creamy. To one-half cupful of butter add one half cupful of finely chopped raisins and two tablespoonfuls of finely-minced candied ginger. Mix, and when of the right consistency spread on buttered bread. Serve with afternoon tea.

Porcupine Apples.

Select apples of uniform size and which will cook tender without losing their shape. To half a dozen apples prepare a syrup in which to cook them. When tender decorate with quartered blanched almonds, sticking them into the apple as thick as desired. Pour the syrup around the apples and bake until the nuts are lightly browned. Serve as dessert with cream. The centers may be filled with bright colored jelly and they may be arranged on a platter if desired with a spoonful of cream whipped stiff on each.

THE NEXT HURDLE

PRIDE in past achievement gives you confidence. But you can easily have too much of it.

Life is a good deal like a hurdle race. The next hurdle doesn't look so high when you have taken three or four like it. But it is the next hurdle, not the last one, that you must think about.

However gracefully you cleared the last one, your problem is getting over the one just ahead.

Take advantage of all the confidence you can get out of what you have done. But always remember that it is what is still to be done, that is going to count.

Napoleon irritated his boasting generals by answering their stories of battles won with the query, "And what did you do the next day?"

It is hard to be able to bask in the light of past accomplishments. Pleasant it is to sit back, after doing something difficult, and admire ourselves for doing it.

But life is like a moving sidewalk. You have got to keep up with it or get off. And we are all born with an instinct that prompts us powerfully not to get off.

Keep your eye on the next hurdle that is the hurdle that is of vital interest to you. It is the one on which you must concentrate all your courage and all your energies.

For if you don't get over it, you are out of the race, and all the hurdles you have taken before have gone for nothing.

If you have had a little success, make it a big success. Put the hurdle up a little higher. If you have done one job well, find a tougher job, and do that better.

That is what makes progress, and progress is necessary to the prosperity and happiness of every human being just as it is necessary to the prosperity and happiness of the whole human race.

There will be plenty of hurdles to take. But when you have taken one make ready for another. For success is just one hurdle after another, and the man who takes them as they come is the man who wins out.

CLAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A MAN, they say, is made of clay;
Undoubtedly it's true.
But then one finds so many kinds
Of clay—now haven't you?
Along the creeks are yellow streaks
Of clay that wouldn't do.

I know the mushy sort of slush
Would never make a man;
He'd fall apart before you start,
Would crumble in the pan.
That's not the ditch of clay in which
Humanity began.

And in the yard is clay so hard,
So shrivelled up and dry,
So rough and cold with musty mold
And full of alkali
No love nor wit could soften it—
You wouldn't even try.

But there is clay beside the way
That's solid yet will bend,
That gives and takes—the kind that makes
A fellow and a friend,
That once you choose, you never lose,
That holds until the end.

So don't begin with clay too thin,
Nor start with clay too thick.
The plastic kind you'll always find
The best to do the trick.
Just add a hand of good, old sand—
And then you'll have a brick!

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

THE STEP BEYOND

JUST a step beyond the barriers which have so long defied us, and we are sure of our ground, certain of realizing our fondest hopes, and marching on and on with the victors.

The thought tarills us with elation, but how hard it is to make the final stride when we are worn and weary.

Human nature is prone to lose courage when the chase is tiresome.

It inclines to become disheartened when carefully worked out plans and calculations fail immediately to produce anticipated results.

The fatal fault with most of us is lack of patience, coupled with an inclination to be governed by impulse rather than reason at the turning moment when everything is dependent on calmness and firmness of purpose.

We incline to haste when we should go slowly and take accurate account of our energy, where we should conserve it, that our minds may not be filled with fear and finally overcome with sickening apprehension.

In business, as in love, most of our miserable failures result from our refusal to consider seriously the step beyond.

For some paltry reason, a whim of the fancy, or a laxity of activity, we find ourselves at the crucial moment weary of the chase.

So we sit in the inviting shade of a friendly nook, while our more ambitious rivals steal a march upon us and capture the prize, only a step beyond our impatient reach.

The blame is our own. But the truth never penetrates our souls until the clear perspective of years gives us a sharper vision which enables us to see our folly.

It is not until then that we fully understand our shortcomings.

To make amends for our own deficiencies, we proceed to pass around advice to our intimates, which, as a rule, falls on barren ground. They know us!

There is but a step between success and failure, likewise but a step between hope and despair. When the occasion comes for action very few of us, alas, know how to make the step, though it is inviting and has an air of simplicity.

And yet there is probably no other movement more vitally important to man's future success than the step just beyond.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"PLUCK"

EXCEPT as a synonym for courage, pluck appears to have little in common with the words which are derived from the French root-word "coeur," meaning "heart" but, in reality, they are very closely allied, having their parentage in the old belief that the heart is the seat of bravery. "Courage" and "courageous" both bear testimony to this belief, having come down to us by way of the French, while "pluck" is essentially Anglo-Saxon and was formerly the slang term for the entrails of an ox or steer. When the butcher laid open the carcass of the animal he would divide the great arteries leading to the heart, gut through the windpipe, and then lift or pluck out the heart and lungs, referring to the entire mass as "the pluck."

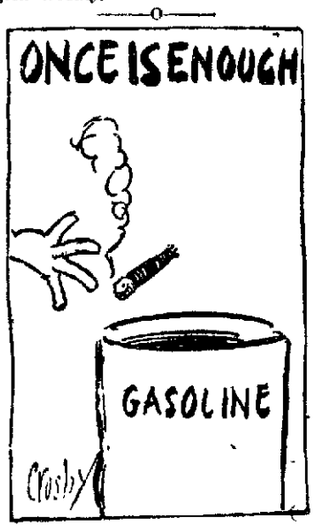

Merely as an indication of the comparative infancy of the word, Sir Walter Scott wrote in his journal in 1827 that a certain man was "wanting in that article which is blackguardedly called 'pluck.'" For a number of decades past, however, the word has been sanctioned by the best usage in English and this butcher's colloquialism has taken its place alongside the aristocratic words of the language.

GOOD CARE OF RASPBERRIES

Canes Should Be Cut Back in Spring to Desired Fruiting Height—Look for Disease.

The New York experiment station has sent out a circular on care of raspberries.

With the close of the fruiting season horticulturists at the experiment station at Geneva are recommending the removal and destruction of the fruiting canes in all raspberry plantings. These old canes are no longer needed by the bush and they may harbor disease organisms or insect pests which might infest the new growth. The removal of the old canes will also give more room for new growth the next season.

In the spring the canes of red raspberries should be cut back to a desired fruiting height, usually three or four feet from the ground, depending on the vigor of the bush. Black raspberries require more severe pruning than the red varieties as the old fruiting canes should be removed and the new growth checked in the summer by pinching off the succulent tips of the new canes at about two feet from the ground. Since the new canes do not all grow at the same time it is necessary to go over the bushes several times during the summer. In the spring the side branches which have developed as a result of this summer pruning should be cut back from one-third to one-half their length.

Raspberry growers are urged to be on the lookout for plants affected with mosaic or yellows and to remove and destroy all such plants, including the roots and suckers, as that is the only way in which the disease can be stamped out. The mosaic is characterized by the mottled appearance of the leaves and the dwarfing of the canes. In setting out new plants care should be exercised that only disease-free stock is used as any part of a diseased plant will bring the disease into the patch where it will gradually spread to healthy plants.

AVOID SUNSCALD IN WINTER

If Alternate Freezing and Thawing Continues Bark on Exposed Side of Tree Dies.

Just from the sound of the name one would think sunscald a summer trouble in the orchard. It is true the hot sun in summer, especially in some regions, may cause the trouble, but sunscald may occur in its worst form in winter, as well.

During many winter days, the sun's heat may warm up the southern or southwestern sides of trunks and branches to the thawing point. At night the wood freezes again. If this alternate freezing and thawing continues for any considerable length of time, the bark on the exposed side of the tree will die and split off. The broken bark offers a point of entrance for fungus tree diseases of many kinds which may ultimately kill the tree.

Where conditions are especially bad it will pay to shade the southwest portions of the trunk and branches. Cornstalks, straw or similar material bound about the branches will give excellent protection.

SPRAY TO CONTROL INSECTS

Use of Lead Arsenate When About 90 Per Cent of Blossoms Have Fallen, Is Urged.

It will still be worth while for owners of peach trees to spray for the control of curculio and other insects. The best spray for this purpose is lead arsenate, using one and a half pounds in 50 gallons of water and applying when about 90 per cent of the blossoms have fallen.

GET RID OF WATER SPROUTS

Rubbing Off in Spring After Heavy Pruning Will Save Much Needed Nourishment.

After heavy pruning is done in the spring, especially in the case of apple trees, there is an unusual growth of water sprouts. These may be readily rubbed off with the hand, thus saving nourishment which otherwise would go into water sprouts. Getting rid of water sprouts now also will save time in pruning later.

The SANDMAN STORY

HENPECKED ROOSTER

ONE day Mr. Rooster said to his wife, "My dear, I am going on a little excursion with Mr. Drake. He said he will show me a bit of the world I have not seen."

Biddy was a very wise creature, and having lived for some time she knew when to give advice to her husband and when to keep silent, but this was one of the times she felt she must speak.

"I would not go far away with Mr. Drake, my dear," she said. "You know you cannot stand the weather as he can and it looks to me like rain."

"Oh, bother," crowed Mr. Rooster. "can't you see the weather is fine, and besides Mr. Drake told me this was sure to be a fine day and he ought to know; he is older than we are."

Mr. Rooster Went Along.

"It may be a fine day for ducks," replied Biddy, "but not for hens and roosters. Better not go far away."

"Come along, don't let your wife boss you, Mr. Rooster," said Mr. Drake, who had just waddled along. "I never let my wives tell me what to do, and I have had several; it is going to be a fine day, I tell you."

Mr. Rooster lifted his head higher and strutted off with Mr. Drake down the road; the sun was shining and there were plenty of worms and bugs to be found, and though the sky did look dark once in a while Mr. Drake assured him that the weather was sure to keep fine, so Mr. Rooster went along where Mr. Drake led him.

The first thing he knew he was in the woods and the rain was pattering on the leaves. "Guess I better run home," he said.

"Oh, this is fine weather," said Mr. Drake. "Don't be frightened by a little rain. You rest under this tree and I will take a swim on the pond. I do love a swim when it is raining."

So off went Mr. Drake, leaving Mr. Rooster all dripping wet under the tree and feeling very unhappy, and he wished very much he had listened to his wife and stayed near the barnyard.

By and by the lightning flashed and the thunder rolled and down came the rain as if poured from a pail.

Mr. Rooster started for home soaked to the skin, and when he crept under the barnyard gate his wife, who was peeking out from under some bushes, saw him. "What did I tell you?" she said. "I knew just how it would be. Now you come right into the house and dry those wet clothes and get into bed.

"I'll put your feet in hot water and give you ginger tea and wrap you up in a blanket and the next time Mr. Drake wants to go on an excursion tell him to take some one that likes wet weather," and she gave him a sharp peck to let him know she meant it.

Biddy talked so fast that Mr. Rooster could not get in a word edgeways, and he didn't have anything to say anyway, so he meekly obeyed, and that was how he became a henpecked husband for after that when Mr. Rooster started to do anything his wife did not like she had only to say, "Remember your trip with Mr. Drake," and give him a peck with her bill and the question was settled the way Mrs. Biddy wanted it.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

CAROLINE

IT'S a curious fact that some heroes lose, rather than gain, popularity, when their deeds are recorded in romance. Such was the case of the famous Karl of the Franks, who is responsible for the origin of the feminine name Caroline. The great emperor has suffered at the hands of romantic chroniclers, but history preserved the memory of "Carlo Magno," and from his name came a long series of masculine and feminine names.

The first feminine translation known is Carlota. This name was synonymous with Charlotte in those early times, and, indeed, Charlotte and the Caroline of today are almost interchangeable, if their origin is to be observed, no matter how separate and distinct they seem to be. Charlotte, or Carlota, of Savoy married Louis XI and introduced the name to French royalty. Charlotte Albret had the misfortune to be given in marriage to Cesare Borgia and had one daughter, who married into the house of La Tremouille, whence the brave Lady Derby carried it into England.

The Huguenotism of that house connected it with the house of Bouillon, whose heiress, Carola, or Charlotte, was married in 1588. There the house of Orange derived it and it became known in Germany and was brought to England in its full popularity by the good queen of George III. It gained sentimental vogue and an international fame through Goethe, who chose the name for his heroine of "Werther."

The first Caroline was evolved in Italy, but was quickly adopted by southern Germany and in turn brought to England by the wife of George II, who made it extremely popular among the nobility. America received it first through the Carolinas (North and South), and its fame and popularity as a feminine proper name spread rapidly.

Caroline has numberless derivatives and contractions. England calls her Charlotte, Lotty, Chatty, Caroline and Carrie. In France she is Carolina, Charlotte and Lottie. Carlota and Lola are purely Spanish and Carlotta and Carolina are the Italian versions. Germany preserves the original preference for Charlotte, Carolina and Lina.

Caroline's talismanic gem is the diamond. It promises her faithful love if she is married it will enhance the love of her husband, but it should never be purchased, as it is only potent when it is a gift. Her lucky day is Saturday and 1 is her lucky number.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

MONEY IN THE HAND

INHERITANCE of money being always interesting, especially to those who look forward to receiving a legacy, it is well to note what the hand has to say on the subject. Note whether the top phalanx of the finger of Jupiter (the forefinger) bears on the inside, toward the other fingers, a deep vertical line. If the same finger has a number of short, horizontal lines crossing the bottom phalanx, it is also the sign of the inheritance of money.

Next, inspect the rascette, or bracelet, at the wrist. If there is a well-marked, small cross there, money will come to the fortunate possessor of the cross, through inheritance.

Of all the signs of the inheritance of money, however, the strongest is a line running from a star on the mount of Venus (the ball of the thumb) to the middle of the plain of Mars, the "hollow" of the hand. This indicates a large inheritance.

TABLE DECORATIONS

It is a bad plan that admits of no modifications.—Publius Syrus.

IT HAS been said that decorative flowers are even more important in the arrangement of the dinner table than the knives and forks; and true it is that the wise hostess takes as much thought in arranging her centerpiece as in seeing that the silver is freshly polished and properly arranged.

A fat pocketbook is not the only thing needed to make a tasteful floral arrangement on the dinner table. In fact, one need have very little money to spend in order to make an attractive and tasteful arrangement. An over-elaborate arrangement is no longer in good taste. Towering floral structures that really look like nothing so much as the "set pieces" that the florists prepare for far less joyous occasions are really quite bad, and the careful hostess does not leave the matter to the florist, but makes sure that something very simple in arrangement is selected. Except for a children's party or a dinner that is to be given in a spirit of extreme informality, paper decorations are not in good taste either. A cluster of roses or any other hothouse or garden flowers attractively arranged in a glass or silver vase is a charming selection. The addition of ferns or smilax adds to the effectiveness. The vase may be placed either on a bit of embroidered or lace-trimmed linen or on a mirror that reflects the flowers and candles so as to add to the general effectiveness of the arrangement.

A short time ago some of the shops offered for sale rather splendid-looking centerpiece devices that combined a vase placed at the center of a silver standard and little bonbon or salted nut baskets that were hung up on the silver brackets that came out from the standard on all sides. This was rather a clever arrangement, but it was not in the best taste, for nowadays we do not use food as part of the center decoration, as was the case when wonderful centerpieces were made of spun sugar and pastry. The only exception to this rule is in favor of choice fruits occasionally combined with the flowers.

Brainy Girl Has Edge on Girl With Shapely Figure

New York Business Offers Trained Young Women Better Opportunities and More Future Than Show Girls, Employment Expert Says.

New York, N. Y. May 3. (United Press.—While New York theatrical managers are clamoring for girls with "figures" New York business men are clamoring no less insistently for girls with brains. Plenty of the former are available, but there is a distinct shortage of the latter, J. J. McLaughlin, general manager of the American Employment Exchange, declares.

There is more money for the girl with brains in business than there is for the average show girl, McLaughlin stated. Likewise there is more of a future for the average business girl than there is for the average show girl, he holds.

White collar workers are in great demand now due to the expansion in business, he said. The chief need is for capable young women.

"The thoroughly trained and capable young women on whom the business world of today is learning more and more to depend, is not being developed in sufficiently large numbers to keep pace with the demand," McLaughlin said.

"Recent requests for stenographers to fill positions carrying secretarial and executive duties seldom specify, "We want a young man." Calls for male stenographers at salaries in excess of $25 weeky are now only as one to four compared with the demand for women workers. The stenographical duties of such workers are only a minor part of the tasks with which they are entrusted. Not infrequently they enter upon posts where they have at least one and often several assistants. Such positions pay these women from $30 to $50 a week and often more.

"We have found no difficulty in meeting the tremendous increase 1923 has brought in the demand for office help, except in the case of the experienced and highly efficient woman, to whom a working knowledge of stenography is only one accomplishment. If more women who are endowed with executive ability and who now are devoting their time and talents to positions in which the remuncration is limited would take up the study of stenography and secretarial work and would train themselves accordingly to fill these positions of trust, that are simply clamoring for them, they might greatly better themselves.

"Thus equipped, they should find little trouble in finding situations where their talents would be better utilized, and where they could command far better pay than they get as saleswomen, head clerks or in like capacities. The pronounced lack of this kind of material at present is serious. It puts a brake on the wheels of the business advance. It costs the busy executive not only much annoyance but also great waste of time trying out clerical help which either through limitations of education and training or through other personal disqualifications, are incapable of rising to the requirements of these higher clerical posts."

The era of the girl with brains and business training is here, McLaughlin stated.

The girl from out in the country who is ambitious to succeed in New York no longer need turn her eyes to the girl shows, where shapely ankles and figures count the most, he holds.

"Business beckons to her," McLaughlin said.

In drying, like the Italian cheese covering, it contracts, and keeps its contents airtight. The whole thing is edible, liver having some food value, the membrane none."

We are all liable to feel "out of sorts" at times—need something with a "kick" in it to clear the brain, brighten the eye, put "pep" in the system.

Dates September 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th

A most liberal offer by one of Clearfield's prominent men who is interested in the best farm products.

$100.00 in cash premiums for the best 3 bushels of Clearfield County grown field corn by the boys of Clearfield County, under eighteen years of age, subject to the following rules:

Variety Yellow Dent.

First premium	$30.00
Second premium	20.00
Fourth premium	15.00
Fifth premium	10.00

If in doubt about your seed, progress as per plans W. C. Sterrett, Supt. of Clearfield County Farm Bureau. Contestants please send in your name to Chas. Callahan, Fair Mgr.

Judging will be done by the Judges of the Agricultural Department of the County Fair, under rules and regulations of the Fair Association.

This generous offer was made by a man brought up on a farm with a view of interesting the boys on farms to produce a higher standard of field corn.

Go into the contest boys with a determination to win out. The result of this contest will be far reaching besides the prizes. Your premium corn will be in good demand from all parts of the County for seed in 1924.

Plant at least one acre, so if you are among the fortunate ones you will have a double return for your work from the proceeds of your prize corn.

A special space will be reserved for this contest. Name of the donor and premium winners will be placarded in this space right after the judging which will be sometime Wednesday, Sept. 26th. Do your part boys, and the Fair Association will make this one of the most attractive displays on ground.

We would appreciate it if all concerned would make an extra effort to produce exhibits of many varieties. Will not be able to show you the advantages, at this time, but by the 15th of July will be able to give you the Premium List, with full information.

HIGH MORTALITY OF CHICKS

Knowledge, Care and Good Judgment Required to Bring Little Fellows to Maturity.

There is no doubt about the statement that if the mortality among young chicks could be averted and the per cent that dies be brought to maturity, the poultry industry would be one of the largest, if not the largest, in the country. Thousands upon thousands die each year from improper attention to the youngsters after hatching, and thousands fail to hatch from inexperience in handling incubators. To begin with, all eggs should be tested before placing in an incubator or under hens. If this be done only good, strong germ eggs would be used, and those showing defects would be rejected and sent to market for table use. Special attention should be given incubators to see that the thermometer registers just right, and also note that you have the required moisture. Incubators should be started at 101 degrees, 102 second week, and if the batch is good the thermometer will sometimes go as high as 105 degrees the third week. Those chicks which hatch on the night of the nineteenth day or early on the twentieth will be pretty apt to live, as they were good, strong, 100 per cent fertile eggs. Those that hatch later range in vitality from 50 per cent to 80 per cent. The 100 per cent birds thrive and mature to be standard weight. Those under that die beginning the third day, and sometimes string out for two or three months.

...ly of Sturdy Little Chicks, Well Cared For.

POULTRY SELECTION IS BEST

One of Quickest and Surest Ways of Making Improvement in Flock—Quality Counts.

One of the quickest and surest ways of getting improvement in poultry is through selection. Too many people have quantity, to the exclusion of quality, in mind. If you want increased production, it would be much better to have six producing birds in a pen with a male from a high producing female than to have a breeding pen of 200 females mated to a bunch of males of unknown origin.

VITAMINES FINE FOR LAYERS

Milk and Green Succulent Plant Growths Are Essential for Hens—Sour Milk Also Good.

Laying hens need vitamines, undoubtedly, and other elements which are found in certain specific types of food such as milk and green succulent plant growths. The use of sour skimmilk has long been recognized as a splendid supplement to the grain and mash. Feed it in open pans, providing free access, if it can be secured at a reasonable price. Use semisolid buttermilk at the rate of 3 to 5 pounds to 100 hens per day.

POULTRY NOTES

A hungry hen is usually a good layer.

Environment is a great factor in egg production.

Extreme cold and extreme heat alike affect the flow of eggs.

A turkey five months old is as good as raised, but do not be in a hurry about fattening.

No flock of fowls can produce a high average egg yield per year per fowl unless there has been bred into that flock the capacity to use large amounts of food, respond to proper care and environment, and form eggs.

Nearly all the eggs are laid between the hours of nine o'clock in the morning and three o'clock in the afternoon.

• • •

The care of the newly hatched chicks is without question the most exacting task that devolves upon the poultryman or poultrywoman.

• • •

As the seasons vary, the time when chicks may be put on range will vary also. There is danger of getting the chicks out too early unless well protected.

How to Dress to Please Men

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor for the United Press

(Written for the United Press)

New York, May 4.—Opinion has it that women dress to please men. If this be true, many women certainly made a mess of their attempt. Men are simple creatures, after all, and most of them do not know an exquisite gown from a cheap one. There is but one thing which catches their childish eyes—femininity in dress. They like colors and dainty effects which are entirely foreign to their own sombre apparel.

How many times we see some brainless, little doll dressed in ribbons and feminine fol-de-rol holding the attention of a staid business man. Her gown is one that would perhaps be censured by the discriminating eyes of her sex, but the man sees only the color and feminine attractiveness. His heart-strings are made of lace and the girl who holds them in her dainty hands shuns everything masculine in her attire and plays up to her womanly instincts.

Mannish Girl Taboo

It isn't often that the girl in mannish attire is sought after by the male sex, yet many girls go even so far as to wear stiff collars and cuffs and mannish ties with their tailored suits. Needless to say, they have about as much chance with the average man as a man with a lace handkerchief would have with a woman. Suits that are made of mannish tweeds and cut on masculine lines do not attract the average man, nor do sports shoes, which are made so similar to his own. If all women wore sports shoes and woolen stockings there would be few "ankle gazers" about, for the minute a woman ceases to be feminine in her attire she ceases to be a mystery to men.

Clothes need not be expensive to attract men, for men haven't the slightest idea of what clothes cost. They will, however, know whether your collar is made of stiff linen or of dainty lace and they will know whether the blue of your hat is the exact shade of your eyes. It is always the feminine touch that appeals to them. Clothes that are absolutely foreign to those men wear are certain to attract their attention.

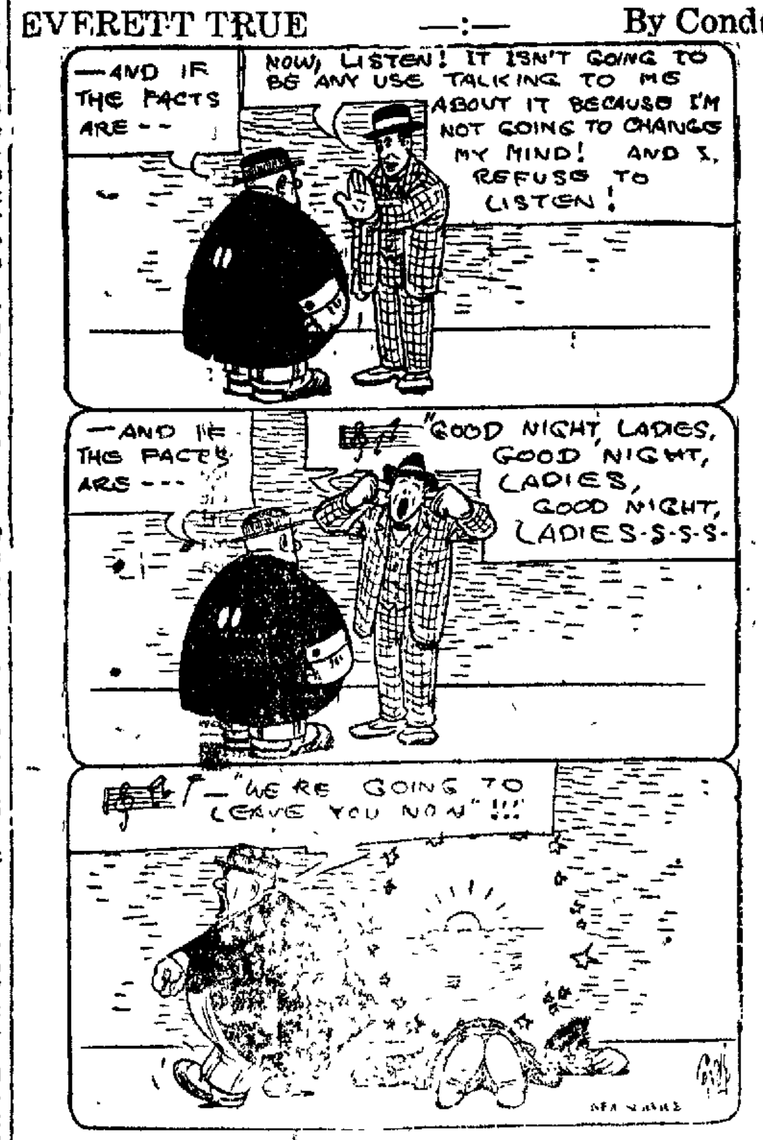

Daintiness Necessary

Bizarre effects in dress appeal to certain men, but these men are not those who could be inveigled into mowing their own laws and drying the supper dishes for the gingham-aproned wife, so it is unwise to play up to them.

It is easy enough for the woman of means to assume daintiness in her dress. The business girl finds the task more tedious as she is forced to wear sensible, business-like clothing, but it is especially important for the girl who works side by side with men to hold a "robe of femininity" about her lest she lose her feminine entity althogether. This does not mean that the business girl should go to work in chiffons and bright colors, but she mustn't sacrifice her feminine attractiveness by wearing too severely cut clothing. There are always daint collars and trimmings by which she can modify the somberness of a dark business dress. There should always be some concession made to girlish charm in her attire.

Though gallant men passed with the lace kerchiefs and fans of our grandmothers' days, the spirit of the gallant lies dormant in every man and needs but the touch of feminine vanities of dress to revive it.

Cause of Poor Spelling.

Poor spelling even among the well-educated is due largely to poor eyesight in the early life of the individual. To spell correctly is trulfully to recall sizes and shapes which were photographed upon the brain through the eyes. If the eyes have not photographed a perfect likeness of the word or words your knowledge is incorrect and the word is often misspelled.

OPEN CAR LUXURY; ENCLOSED AUTO IS A REAL NECESSITY

That the open car is daily becoming more of a luxury while the enclosed car is becoming more of a necessity is the claim of Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company

"People who have grown tired of driving open cars under unpleasant weather conditions are now entering the closed car field by the thousand through the purchase of low priced two door enclosed cars," says Mr. Jordan, "and once having experienced the greater comfort and convenience that the average closed car offers over the average open car, they will continue to want that type.

"But there is already a marked tendency toward a more convenient compact, four door enclosed car which is a combination of the small two door type and the larger, more cumbersome sedan.

"The Jordan factory is now running 60 per cent of its production on closed cars, with the new four door brougham scheduled at the rate of 30 a day."

Saved From Hanging.

A man of the name of John Lee, who lived in Babbicombe, Devonshire, England, was sentenced to death for slaying. Through some bungling on the part of the hangman three unsuccessful attempts were made to execute the sentence and he was afterward pardoned and released.

Equal Bird Rights.

Homing pigeons probably are closer to the human family than any other form of winged [illegible] birds have remarkable intelligence, says Nature magazine. They mate in pairs and the female of each union has exercised her right of suffrage to the extent that the male helps her in hatching out the eggs and in caring for and feeding the young.

This One Your Friend.

As far as its economic status is concerned the Phoebe makes an ideal neighbor, says Nature Magazine. This bird's diet consists of 90 per cent animal food and 10 per cent vegetable matter. The major part of the insects eaten are injurious species.

"What Matters the Road?"

Now and then in Brittany one sees an East Indian, lithe as a panther peering in at the open door of a cathedral with wistful interest. As Krishna said many hundreds of years ago: "What matters the road if it leads to God?"—Nina Larrey Duryea in Harper's Magazine.

Holland's Odd House.

Rotterdam has the highest house in the country. It is known as the American skyscraper and is actually seven stories high. It is built of porcelain tiles and stands upon piles. Amsterdam has the queen's palace, the foundation of which is 13,600 piles and there are so many other buildings there supported that way that the town really roosts on tree trunks.

Mexicans Live Over Shops.

In the City of Mexico everybody lives over a shop, if the house be two stories, or uses the lower floor as a garage, stable or quarters for the servants. Even the millionaires often rent the ground floor of their fine residences for business purposes.

OLAND IN "EAST IS WEST" SUCCESSFUL AS CHINAMEN

Difficult as it is for an American actor to make up as a Chinaman, it is a still harder task for an actor who must be photographed in scenes in which he appears with several real Chinamen, with slant eyes, pig tails and the inscrutability of the true Oriental.

Nevertheless this difficult feat is accomplished with signal success by four well known actors appearing in support of Constance Talmadge, the brilliant screen star, in "East Is West," a First National attraction which will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday at the Driggs theatre

To Warner Oland falls the finest part as Charlie Yong, the Americanized Chinaman who covets Ming Toy. This role was one of the most prominent in the play "East Is West" during its run of two seasons on the speaking stage of Broadway. Mr. Oland makes it equally significant on the screen.

"Western Reserve."

When Connecticut, in 1786, ceded her western lands to the United States, she reserved a large tract adjoining Pennsylvania, now forming several counties in the northeastern part of Ohio. From this the region came to be called "the Western Reserve." The reservation by Connecticut only lasted a few years, as in 1800 she completed the transfer of all the lands to the United States. The Western Reserve soon became famous for its good citizenship, fine farms and determined opposition to slavery.

Fair Warning.

Later in the afternoon Bob discovered the mischief and as his sister was about to put on the slippers he came swiftly running toward her, crying out as he did so: "Don't put them on. There's a bird's nest inside and you'll kill the young ones!"

THREAT TO KILL CAPTIVES IS MADE BY CHINESE BANDITS IN KIDNAPING

Governments Make An Absolute Demand On Chinese Government For Release of All.

Pekin, China, May 8.—Foreign prisoners of the Chinese bandits in Shantung will be killed after three days unless Government troops cease firing, according to a message sent from the outlaw's camps by Miss Minnie MacFaddyen, one of the women released.

Through Miss MacFaddyen and a few others who were captured and later freed, Robert P. Scripps, American Newspaper publisher obtained the first description of what occurred after the hostages had been removed from the wrecked Pekin express and hustled away into the hills.

Miss MacFaddyen, accompanied by Miss Lucy A. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made her way back from the camp with great difficulty, after being turned loose wearing a Chinese woman's garment. Refugees report they were not harmed by the bullets and that although firing was heard no bullets came near where the prisoners were kept.

Washington, May 8.—The United States and other leading powers have demanded of the Chinese government ransom of Americans and other foreigners held captive by Chinese bandits, the State Department announced today.

This demand was made by American Minister Schurman and other [illegible] Pekin, who decided at a meeting today on this and other steps.

The ransom asked by the bandits is reported to be $[illegible],000.

Schurman and other diplomats also are making strongest possible representations to the Chinese government, demanding immediate dispatch of punitive forces against the bandits to rescue the foreigners and punish the bandits.

Pekin, May 8.—The foreign legations have sent an ultimatum to the Chinese government, demanding release of all prisoners held by the Shantung bandits.

"Free all foreigers immediately, alive. We do not care what methods are used to free them," is the message sent by the government.

Peking, May 8.—The Chinese government has ordered the governor of Shantung to concede the demand of the bandits and obtain the immediate release of all foreigners who were kidnaped. The governor is ordered to pay the ransom, if necessary.

Jacob Gould Schurman, U. S. minister to China, who is pressing the Chinese government in the search for bandits who wrecked a train and kidnaped a number of foreigners, many Americans being among them.

Robert P. Scripps, editorial director of the Scripps-Howard News papers, reported as being among a number of Americans captured and held prisoner by Chinese Bandits who wrecked a train on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

GOVERNOR'S WILLINGNESS TO MAKE A FAIR COMPROMISE SPEEDS ALL OF HIS PROGRAM TOWARDS ULTIMATE SUCCESS

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—Governor Pinchot's legislative program, which includes practically all important measures that have been before the legislature for consideration this session, had reached a point today where substantial success was in sight.

Oppositions which have loomed up again and again durinng all the months of the session still exist today but were believed to be without the strength to do more than delay the Governor's measures.

Objection to the Administrative code were to a large extent mollified last night by Pinchot's willingness to compromise. Critics of the code were given to understand that the Administration would not quibble on most of the amendments inserted by the Senate Finance Committee.

Following the hearing on the code tonight, the measure will be brought back to the Senate and rushed through. There was no indication today that there would be strong opposition to it in the Senate now that the Governor has consented to most of the Senate's amendments.

CLARK-HARRIS

Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock in the West Side M. E. parsonage Russell Clark of Philipsburg and Miss Mary Harris of Morrisdale were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. William L. Armstrong, who used the ring ceremony. They were attended by the groom's father and mother, Mr and Mrs. Brook Clark. Also by Mrs. Helen Butler and son, Blair. The happy young couple will begin their life together in Philipsburg. Best wishes are extended from their many friends.

"BILL" ALEXANDER TELLS HOUSE HE HAS LOST HIS FAITH IN GIFFORD PINCHOT

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—Opposition to the two hundred fifty thousand dollars, asked by the Governor for law enforcement developed in the House today when the General Appropriation Bill came up for vote.

Marcus of Allegheny asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment striking out the two hundred fifty thousand dollars.

McVicar of Allegheny, Administrative leader in the House objected. Marcus then moved the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole for the purpose of considering an amendment.

Alexander of Delaware violently attacked the Governor's efforts to have two hundred fifty thousand dollars restored while the bill was in Appropriations Committee. He accused Governor Pinchot of influencing the Committee by offering political appointments. Alexander was interrupted again and again by points of order but continued his attack on the Administration. When asked why he had changed his position on the two hundred fifty thousand dollars, asked of the Governor, Alexander shouted: "Because I have lost confidence in the Governor."

BOGGS BOY SHOOTS SELF, INFLICTING A FATAL WOUND

Sixteen Year Old Boy Unfortunate Victim of Revolver Which He Used to Hunt Crows.

DEATH ACCIDENT

Gilbert Gulich, a 16-year-old Boggs township boy, who made his home with his grandmother Mrs. A. M Lumadue, is dead as the result of a shooting accident which occurred last evening about 7 o'clock.

Young Gulich, accompanied by a couple of boys about his own age sons of Walter Gallaher, were on the Gallaher place attempting to shoot some crows. Gulich had a .22-calibre revolver with him, which was accidentally discharged while he was handling it, the bullet from same entering one of his eyes.

The injured lad was taken into the Gallaher home and Dr. G. B. Shivery of Woodland, summoned, but the injury was such that medical skill was of no avail and death followed shortly after the shooting. The bullet entered the eye and lodged in the skull.

EXPLODING OIL STOVE FATAL TO FOUR AT DERRY

Derry, Pa., May 8.—A mother and her three children were burned to death here early today following explosion of an oil stove

MOOSE WILL BEGIN ERECTION OF TWO STORY BLDG. MAY 15

The local Loyal Order of Moose have finally decided to begin the erection of their new building on third lot on Market street. The plans originally called for a three story building but the bids for the erection of the proposed building were so high that the lodge decided to modify their plans and instead of a three story building make it but two stories.

It is expected that work on the building will be started by May 15th or thereabouts.

The Postoffice Department has a ten year lease on one of the first floor rooms in the new building for the Clearfield post office.

Yellow Dogs Haled Into Court Plead That They Are Worthless

For the benefit of some impecunious creditor on this side the mountain we print the following reference to the Yellow Dogs taken from Monday's Altoona Mirror:

"The Order of Yellow Dogs bobbed up in court this morning, in an attachment suit brought by T. C. Hare attorney for J. B. Fluke and Sons, attaching any funds that may be due Robert Walters, the Old Home Week contractor, from the Yellow Dogs. The Dogs claim that Walters failed to carry out his contract to provide them with a float for the Old Home Week celebration in Altoona, and they therefore owe him nothing.

Attorney Robert W. Smith declared that the Order of Yellow Dogs had taken the vows of absolute financial worthlessness and that while they had bones in the Kennel, yet there was no marrow. Mr. Hare said, that he would be satisfied when the order filed its answers."

JUDGE CUMMINS OF WASHINGTON, PA., PACKS A WALLOP

Washington, Pa., May 7.—The most drastic sentences for the violation of liquor laws in the history of Washington County, were imposed today on nine members of the so-caled bootleg ring in Criminal Court. All pleaded guilty to illegal transportation and selling. Fines ranging from $1000 to $1699 with jail sentences of seven months to two years and four months, were imposed. In addition the defendants were not only assessed the court costs, but also the cost of the special investigation under way for four months.

Meanwhile seven Wheeling men indicted for rum-running between Pittsburgh and the West Virginia border, failed to appear in court today and forfeited cash bail totalling $20,500. They gave the names of George H. Fuestel, John Brown, D. M. Goldberg Paul McGrew, Ray Montgomery, Tony Sarris and Nick Saleno.

A touch of melodrama was given the court proceedings as the nine Washington men faced the bar, when Judge Erwin Cummins announced that immediately prior to entering court he had been handed an anonymous letter mailed in Washington, in which various threats were made against him if he did not show leniency to the defendants. The judge also was told that failure to impose light sentences would result in his political death. With scarcely suppressed anger Judge Cummins declared such threats only confirmed him in his determination to see that all defendants guilty of violation of the liquor laws were treated alike.

The men fined and sentenced follow: J. Ray Nease, $1699; two years fourmonths; John Burr, $1369, two years four months; George F. Smith $1480, two years four months; Peter Filos, $1277, two years four months; George Alexis, $1764, two years four months; Samuel Hirsch-

RED CROSS NURSE MAY BE WITHDRAWN FROM HOUTZDALE

Unless that Community Is Successful Wednesday Evening In Raising Funds to Continue.

FUNDS ARE LOW

The Clearfield chapter of the American Red Cross is so hard pushed for funds by reason of the smaller number to enroll at the annual roll call drive that they are forced very much against their will to curtail their activities during the coming months. Heretofore the Red Cross paid a part of the salary of the School Nurse but this being impossible the School Board now has to meet all of that expense, as the wonderful work being done by the school nurse makes her retention absolutely necessary.

The Clearfield chapter will have funds sufficient to maintain Miss Witherow the local A. R. C. Nurse but will be unable to give its customary support to outoftown communities in the county and to that end Miss Lockert, the nurse in charge at outzdale, will have to be dropped from the rolls unless the people of that community come to the rescue and provide the necessary funds The wonderful work being done by the Red Cross public health service is so much worth while that the citizens of Houtzdale have called a "town meeting" for Wednesday evening to discuss ways and means for the raising of sufficient funds to maintain the nurse and service in that section. The people of the Houtzdale section are loyal to their community and can be depended upon to do the right thing at all times and it is expected they will provide for the retention of Miss Lockert.

MILLS, CLASS RUSH LEADER, ON WAY TO CHICAGO TO TESTIFY

Akron, Ohio, May 8.—Joseph Allen Mills, leader of the class rush at Northwestern University in 1921, in which Leighton Mount is alleged to have been killed, today is enroute to Chicago to tell investigators his version of the hazing.

Before leaving Akron in custody of two Asistant District Attorneys, Mills said his reason for keeping under cover since the hazing probe started was that "he was kicked out of the University and Fraternity." "I didn't want the publicity," he said.

FIVE YOUNG WOMEN GET DIPLOMAS AS GRADUATE NURSES

The Commencement exercises of Clearfield Hospital Training School for Nurses held in the Clearfield High School auditorium last evening was well attended and a success in every way. Following the exercises at the High School a reception was tendered thegraduates at the Nurses Home, which was also a decidedly pleasing function and was largely attended by the friends of the hospital and the Class of 1923.

Those receiving diplomas last evening were:

Mary Wolf Baker, Maytown, Pa.
Celestine V. Kennedy, Ridgway.
Nell B. Thompson, Bigler.
Mabel N. Stronberg, Johnsonburg.
Rachel M. Price, Mahaffey.

Prof. Will Grant Chambers, Dean of Penn State College, delivered an excellent address to the graduating class, which was very favorably commented upon by all fortunate enough to hear it.

Girl Scout Troop 8 enjoyed a hike to the Moose Creek reservoir Saturday.

SLASHES AUTO TOP AND TIRES WHILE OWNER IS AT SHOW

There was a big crowd of people in town yesterday and while they were orderly and well behaved in the main, there was at least one miscreant in the outfit. That fellow took his knife and slashed to ribbons the top of the automobile of Harry Schiefer, of Hyde, which was parked near the corner of Second and Cherry streets In addition to slashing the top the knife wielder also destroyed a tire with his knife thrusts.

The slashing was done through pure devilishness and if the perpetrator of the outrage can be located he will be made to pay dearly for his dirty work.

AN ABLE SPEAKER IS HEARD AT MEETING OF COMMERCIALITES

The circus being in town did not stop our busy, public-spirited organization, the Commercial Club, from meeting last evening at the usual time and place. Considerable business was transacted and directors were nominated for the election at the next meeting.

Public co-operation was asked by Mr. Fletcher representing the American Railways Association of which his company the Pennsylvania, is a member. A concerted effort for improved railway accommodations for the coming peak of the business year is being made by all leading roads.

The winners of the boys' marble shooting contest held last Saturday under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and for which the club furnished the prizes were announced. Edwin Flegal and F. Fletcher, two of the prize winners, were present as guests of the club for dinner. Robert Shull, the other prize winner, missed, evidently didn't read the Progress last evening. Sam Warner introduced the boys and gave their biographies. A marble shooting contest open to all members of the club was announced. Walt Flegal challenging all comers.

President Frantz then introduced Mr. J. D. Gill, of the personnel department of the Atlantic Refining Co. at Philadephia. Mr. Gill gave a really scholarly talk on the present economic situation as revealed by the scientific research on the subject by his company. He described and explained the fundamental principles underlying trade booms and prosperity waves as well as the reaction phases as shown in the periods of depression. Without a doubt the presentation was one of the most instructive the club has heard in a long time and merited the intense interest which was given it by every member present. Tony Gorman, thru whose personal efforts the guest of the evening was secured, is to be commended for favoring the club with a speaker of the calibre of Mr. Gill.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO LAST NIGHT PAINFULLY HURT

Little Miss Barbara Wilson, 5 year old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Cecil F. Wilson, was seriously and painfully bruised last evening when she was knocked down and run over by a Ford Coupe driven by Robert H. Lynn, of South Second street.

Mr. Lynn was driving down Second street about 5 o'clock. The circus had just left out and traffic was heavy on the street. He was driving at a moderate rate of speed and very careful on account of the traffic. As he approached the corner of Walnut street, Mr. Lynn noticed a bunch of children waiting to cross and fearing some of them might take a notion to dash out into the street he kept his eye on them particularly. Suddenly and without a moment's warning he was confronted by the little Wilson girl running out from behind a parking car directly in the path of his machine. It was simply impossible

Chicago, May 8.—A storm, assuming proportions of a blizzard in some localities, swept over the northwest today seriously hampering spring wheat and other crops. At noon several inches of snow had fallen in central Wisconsin.

Snow was reported in St. Paul and Bismark, N. D. The storm reached as far south as Waterloo, Iowa.

Washington, May 8.—A spring cold wave sweeping out of Alaska which will hold the entire eastern and western half of the continent in its grip until Wednesday was forecasted by the Weather Bureau today. Frosts will be general as far south as Kentucky and Tennessee.

The storm was centered over the lake region and freezing temperatures and snow have been reported from Minneapolis, St. Paul and LaCrosse, Wisconsin and points in Illinois and Iowa.

The storm area is moving rapidly east and colder weather will hit the east tonight. The cold wave will last three or four days, it was predicted.

Former Chicago Tribune Reporter Gives Graphic Description Of Chinese Bandit Treatment Of Women

Shanghai, May 7.—Lloyd Lehrbas, reporter on the "China Press" of Shanghai, foremrly of Pocatello, Idaho, and of the Chicago "Tribune," who escaped from the bandits who held up the Peking express on the Shantung border, arrived today with the first eye-witness story of the affair.

Women beaten, shoved ahead as they lagged behind, spat upon by the bandits and some of them eventually left where they dropped in their tracks as the marauders set a terrific pace of over the hilly country, was one of the pictures drawn by the American newspaperman, who himself escaped clad only in his pajamas.

Driven Away in Bare Feet

Lehrbas said he was in the hands of the brigands for three hours With the others captured on the train men and women most of them clad only in their night clothes as they were routed from their berths, he was driven away from the scene of the holdup in his bare feet, while the guards about the party continually menaced them with revolvers and rifles

The captives were driven forward at high speed over rough country. Women, whose pace was slower than that of the men, were shoved ahead as they fell behind, beaten when they could travel no faster and spat upon as they fell alongside the trail worn out.

Husbands of the helpless women were forced to leave their wives where they had fallen or were driven on ahead as the women dropped to the rear, unable to keep up with the main party despite the beatings administered by their guards.

The bandit who was guarding Lehrbas, the newspaperman said, was laden with loot wrapped in a sheet snatched from a berth in the train. He dropped some of his booty and as he stooped to recover that Lehrbas said he crawled away into the darkness and hid in the tall grass.

Lehrbas gave the names of the following as being in the party of which he was a member as the bandits drove them into the hills:

Children in Bandits' Hands

Major Robert Allen, U. S. A. Medical Corps; Major Roland Pinger, U. S. A. Ordnance Department; their wives and Roland Pinger, 8 years old, who is still a captive with his father, and Edward Pinger, 4, who later was released with his mother; Robert Allen, son of Major Allen, still held captive; J. A. Hinley and C Jacobson.

Lehrbas says he saw a white man, who had been traveling in a third class carriage of the train, shot dead by the brigands.

All the passengers lost everything they had with them, except the night clothes in which they slept when the bandits raided the train.

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

CHINESE METHODIST CHURCH PLANNED FOR PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, May 7. (United Press.)—A Chinese Methodist Episcopal church will be erected in the heart of Philadelphia Chinatown this fall according to Miss Eliza Worl, treasurer of the Chinese mission.

Two thousands five hundred dollars has been raised among the Chinese themseves for a site of the new church.

The Chinese church will have some features quite distinct from other Methodist Episcopal churches. The auditorium will accommodate 400 worshippers and services will be conducted by Rev. Henry Ko, a Chinese minister who serves his congregation without salary.

Refreshments are served in the Chinese church, rooms on the second floor of the new church building will be fitted for this purpose. Another novel feature of the church building will be its Sunday school. Each class will consist of one teacher and one pupil so that the teacher can give the pupil full time in instructions.

Rooms for guests who come from and remain in the city are to be arranged in the church.

Kellogg's Bran gives permanent relief because it is ALL BRAN!

Every member of your family will enjoy better health—eat better, work better, sleep better—if they eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Its natural, positive work for health is actually a blessing to humanity! Kellogg's gives permanent relief from constipation because it is ALL BRAN! It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation.

Kellogg's Bran cleans and purifies the drainage channel; it clears away toxic poisons and frees you from the ravages of such dread diseases as Bright's, diabetes, etc., as well as sick headaches, rheumatism and mental and physical depression. A week's trial of this great nature food will prove that its work for health is wonderful!

Consider Kellogg's Bran as a food. It is not a laxative nor a medicine. Bran is the outer coating of whole wheat and contains such nourishment factors as mineral salts and other elements vital in sustaining life!

Kellogg's Bran is cooked and all ready to eat. It is delightful as a cereal, or sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal. Another popular way to eat it is to cook or mix it with a hot cereal. In preparation, add two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person.

Delicious bakery batches are made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes also printed on each package.

DO TWO THINGS—Eat Kellogg's Bran each day for permanent relief from constipation and be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases, with each meal.

First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

"To Her Whose Heart Is My Heart's Quiet Home, To My First Love--My Mother"

Motherhood is the one vocation in which age brings added honor and no lessening charm. No fame or glory that a woman may achieve in science, arts, or letters can raise her to a more exalted place.

Most fitting symbol of her staunch place in the world is the "Gift That Lasts"—the bit of jewelry that will outlive nations, that carries with it the suggestion of unperishable worth, and around which may cling the sentiment of a lifetime.

The gift from our store you give your Mother on this "Mother's Day" will be one of her most cherished possessions. In imperishable beauty it will perpetuate the sentiment of the hallowed day.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Henry Ford is the richest man in the world.

Wall Street came to this conclusion when the Ford Motor Company made public its financial condition as of Feb 28, 1923, on Saturday last.

The statement, as filed with the Massachusetts Commissioner of Corporations in Boston, shows assets of $530,351,939 compared with $400,548,946 the previous year.

It reveals cash on hand of $159,605,687, against $109,282,732 in 1922, an increase of more than $50,000,000

It gives a profit and loss surplus of $359,777,598 compared with $240,478,736 the preceding year.

Net profits, Wall Street estimated, approximated $119,000,000, which is equivalent to more than $690 a share on the 172,465 shares of $100 par value capital stock outstanding, which Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, own outright.

The large expansion of Ford operations is clearly exposed by the report. Accounts payable more than doubled in the twelve months, being $61,488,980, as compared with $33,089,894. Depreciation charges, which were $50,820,307 in 1922, increased to $62,576,257. Security holdings jumped more than $21,000,000 and inventories spared nearly $38,500,000.

Henry Ford, Wall Street reasons, has a total fortune, including his Ford Motor Company holdings, of between $600 000,000 and $750,000,000. It may be even higher.

John D. Rockefeller was the world's richest man, but he has given away more than $1,000,000,000, and probably has not more than $300,000,000 left.

George F Baker of the First National Bank director in many corporations, is well to the top with some $400,000,000.

The magnitude of Henry Ford's fortune may be measured by comparison with the riches of some of his famed predecessors. Andrew Carnegie at one time possessed an estimated fortune of $300,000,000. The John Jacob Astor estate totalled $70,000,000. The Marshall Field estate reached $120,000,000. The J. P. Morgan estate was given as $75,000,000, while the Cornelius Vanderbilt estate was reported as $50,000,000.

And Ford, it must be remembered, started his amazing company only twenty years ago, with a capital stock of $100,000, a factory floor space of 28 acre and an average number of employees 311. Seventeen hundred cars were built the first year. April 7 last it was reported the Ford Motor Company had built more than 6,000,000 automobies and was well into the seventh million.

Compared with Wall Street's present admission that Ford is the modern Croesus, it will be remembered that only two years ago the money powers had the automobile maker, they thought, at their mercy. Ford needed cash, due to constant expansion, and made no bones in saying so.

Wall Street expected Ford to come to New York and beg funds on his bended knees, and the word was passed around he would go back empty handed. Ford had his ear to the ground, so the story goes, and decided to let Wall Street severely alone

Reducing the price of flivvers, he speeded up his factories to capacity and shipped automobiles by the carload to every Ford dealer in the world, and with every consignment went a bill with demand for immediate payment.

The Ford dealers paid—they knew what was best for them—and almost overnight the automobile maker was possessed of some $125,000,000 in cash, which saved the day with millions to spare.

In Class With Steel.

Wall Street also noted, in connection with the Boston statement, that United States Steel, Ford Motor and General Electric lead the great industrial companies in cash and security holdings. United States Steel comes first with some $318,000,000. Ford Motor Company is second and General Electric third, with $168,000,000.

The combined cash and security holdings of these three great companies is around $600,000,000. It is only $10,000,000 short of the aggregate cash reserve of the New York Federal Reserve District, which includes the state of New York, northern New Jersey and parts of Connecticut.

Bankers pointed to the fact that Ford's huge cash balance is despite expenditures for coal lands, water-power sites and branch plant investments, which were all paid for in cash out of current earnings.

For comparison it is interesting to note that for the year ended July 31 1916, the Ford Motor Company had cash on hand of $52,550,771, while profits for the year reached $59,994,118. The report caused a sensation and was regarded as epochal in the automobile industry.

THREAT TO KILL

bandits in Shantung province, China, was discussed today at a conference between Secretary Hughes and Acting Secretary Davis of the War Department.

Afterward Mr. Davis announced that the War Department was ready to back up with armed forces any decision reached by the State Department or by the council of foreign ambassadors in Peking.

The council of envoys of the various governments represented in Peking is expected to meet tomorrow to discuss a course of action.

It was intimated that a determination on the part of the Peking council contemplating concerted action by the ofreign powers against the bandits would cause no surprise here.

Under the final protocol, signed in September, 1901, by the governments which participated in the expedition, an international military force has been maintained in China for the purpose of "keeping open communication between the capital (Peking) and the sea."

Big Force Available.

In accordance with this agreement the United States has at present a force of 35 officers and 888 men stationed at Tientsin under command of Brigadier General William D. Connor Official government statistics show that Belgium maintains one officer and 14 men at Peking; the British, 31 officers and 944 men; the French, 24 officers and 1,050 men; Italy, one officer and 35 men; the Japanese, 59 officers and 1,082 men, and the Netherlands, one officer and 76 men. There is also at Peking one battalion of United States marines stationed as legation guard.

A composite military force of this nature, in the opinion of military experts, would be more than sufficient to cope with the bandits in Shantung It is also pointed out that the mobilization of such a force would have a decided salutary effect upon brigand and irregular forces in China and probably would be of material assistance to the Peking government in solving its difficulties and ridding the country of such disturbing elements.

It is believed that any treaty provision under which foreign troops at stationed in China would not operate to restrict any concerted military action should the Chinese central government prove impotent to cope with the bandits, because, it is pointed out, under the general principles of international law governments are free to resort to such action when the responsible government has failed to maintain the security of life and property.

Harding's Order Enough.

An order by President Harding, in the opinion of State and War Department officials, would be sufficient to start the American troops in China in pursuit of the bandits, to secure the release of the American captives. Naturally, however, the Washington government first would ascertain more definitely the ability of Peking to deal effectively with the situation

An official list of Americans "believed to have been" on the train held up by bandits was reported by Minister Schurman, at Peking, and Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham, at Shanghai, as follows:

Larry Lehrbas, L. C. Solomon, Leon Friedman, J. A. Henley, Miss Lucy Aldrich and maid, Miss McFadden, Colonel and Mrs. Pfuger and two sons, Major and Mrs. Allen and son; Mr. Levy, Robert Scripps, J. B. Powell, Miss Schonberg and Allen Child.

Five Women Free.

While the situation was under discussion further official advices regarding the incident received at the State Department, confirmed the report that Miss Lucy Aldrich, Miss McFadden and Miss Schonberg had been released.

The department's advices also said that Lehrbas was reported to have escaped.

Arizona Peopled Ages Ago.

There are ruins in Arizona that prove beyond a doubt that it was peopled generations before the pyramids of Egypt were erected. Of course outside of these ruins we know nothing of these prehistoric tribes, but the evidence of their occupation are with us.

The near fatal shooting incident at the Shaw pool room last Friday evening serves to emphasize the truth of a statement made in these columns about a month ago that there was a lot of promiscuous gun toting in this vicinity. In this particular instance it was a colored man who had a gun in his pocket. On a former similar happening it was a young man of our own color. Color makes no difference. Young men are still toting guns. It is hard for the officers to locate these fellows. Let every man who counts himself a man help the officers to ferret out the smart Alex and the coward who totes a gun.

It is generally conceded that during the last fifty years the railroad men of this country have perfected a system of transportation that is one of the wonders of the world. No other country possesses anything that can approach it either in efficiency or magnitude.

These railroads have a value of approximately twenty billion dollars and a sufficient mileage of single track to encircle the world over ten times. Over them are transported annually more than thirty million passengers and 950,000,000 tons of merchandise, of which one and a quarter billion dollars' worth is constantly in transit.

For this transportation there are required 65,000 locomotives, sufficient to make a solid train of locomotives stretching from New York to Chicago; 2,500,000 freight and passenger cars; 1,650,000 employes and 125,000,000 tons of coal. For labor the railroads pay annually $2,750,000,000. Dividends amount to about $400,000,000 annually.

These results have been brought about by men who have made railroading their life-work, who do nothing but run railroads. Certain radicals and demagogues are now advocating taking this splendid system of transportation out of the hands of the men who have made it what it is and placing it in the hands of politicians, to be run by political hangers-on and jobhunters.

We tried this experiment during the war and for a period of twenty-six months it cost the people of the United States one billion seven hundred million dollars ($1,700,000,000), over four times more money than it took to construct the Panama Canal. Perhaps that was all right during the war. We were willing to make sacrifices then.

Now, then, Mr. Taxpayer, are you willing to foot this bill in time of peace? Are you willing to have your income tax raised forty or fifty per cent in order to let the politicians have the fun of discovering whether or not they can run the railroads? You are the one that does the paying and you are the only one that can stop the politicians from shaking down this nice, juicy plum of Federal patronage, this vast system of transportation, on whose proper management depend the safety and welfare of the whole country.

What do you say, Mr. Taxpayer? Are you going to turn over the railroads to the politicians?

If not, see that your United States Senators and Congressmen hear from you without delay. Let them know how you feel on this important subject. If you fail to act now, you will have no right to complain later on that the politicians have put one over on you.

DUBOIS YOUNG PEOPLE WED HERE

Clyde Hatten and Miss Nelle C. Brown, prominent DuBois young people, motored over to Clearfield this morning and were married by Rev Dr. E. C. Reeve, at the Presbyterian manse.

The attendants were J. R. Osborne and Miss Ethel Hatten, sister of the groom. Mrs. J. R. Osborne was also a member of the wedding party.

After the ceremony and congratulations the newly-weds departed in their automobile for an extended honeymoon trip, while the other members of the wedding party returned home.

GOLD FISH IS CAUGHT IN DUBOIS TANNERY DAM

Considerable interest is being created by a gold fish on display in the window of the DuBois Courier. The gold fish is 8 1-2 inches long, and the lucky fisherman is Donald Davie, who caught it in the Tannery dam, on Saturday. Earl Ross also caught one that is 10 inches long. Quite a few people are wondering how gold fish could get into the Tannery dam. One fellow said that it wasn't a gold fish at all, but a sunburned catfish.

TIME TO PRUNE FRUIT TREES

Average Farm Should Not Be Treated Until Middle of March or April.

Many people deprive themselves of the best results from pruning of their orchard trees by doing it at the wrong season of the year. The injurious effect arising from improper selection of time to do the work, often offsets the good to be gained from the pruning hook or knife.

Of course, where one has a large orchard it is often necessary to commence the work before it would be advisable on smaller plantations because pruning requires time and one might not be able to get through the orchard before it would be too late in the spring.

For large orchards, no choice of time can be made because the pruning of a ten acre orchard would require practically a month's time if ten hours per day were spent in the work. One has to start in the winter in order to get through before the sap commences to rise in the spring.

For the small orchard, however, the average farm orchard of an acre or less in size, the pruning should not be done until from the middle of March to the middle of April, just before the sap commences to rise. If special reasons interfere as to why the work can not be done at this time, then the old adage of "when your knife is sharp and you are so inclined."

Wounds made in the spring, however, just before the sap commences to rise begin healing at once, while wounds made earlier in the season as in December and January start healing several weeks later because the cold drying winds have killed the exposed layers of cells in the growing tissues. Many authorities agree that the time of pruning is not so important as the manner in which it is done. The cuts should be made with a sharp knife or saw and close to the remaining branch. Such cuts heal promptly and thoroughly, while jagged cuts having a stub often will not heal at all no matter at what season of the year they are made.

TO SAVE BORDEAUX MIXTURE

Oregon Experiment Station Finds Addition of Little Sugar Will Preserve Material.

Fruit growers who use bordeaux mixture are well acquainted with the fact that the material that is left in the tank over night, or which for some cause must be left standing for a considerable period, loses its effectiveness. A great deal of waste is occasioned by this instability of bordeaux mixture. But at the Oregon Experiment station it has been found that a little sugar put in the bordeaux mixture will overcome all of the trouble. Bordeaux mixture thus treated can be held an indefinite length of time and used the same as freshly made bordeaux. This method will save the spray for future use when rain or a breakdown prevents the grower from finishing out his tank.

In the course of the investigations it was found that the quantity of sugar to use is one-eighth ounce of ordinary granulated sugar for every pound of copper sulphate used. Too much sugar will cause the copper to dissolve. Dissolve the sugar at the rate of one well rounded, but not heaping, teaspoonful of sugar in one quart of water, and use this solution at the rate of one-half pint for every pound of bordeaux required. In other words, a rounded teaspoonful of sugar dissolved in a quart of water is sufficient for 50 gallons of 4-4-50 bordeaux mixture.

PLEASE TAKE MILK IN AS SOON AS DELIVERED

Many folks are allowing the milk delivered early in the mornings to remain on the porch, many times in the direct rays of the sun. This is bringing complaints about sour milk which could be obviated if the milk was taken in the house and placed where it is cool.

The fact that the milk sours when left in the sun for any length of time is not due to any impurities in the milk, but due to the warming influence of the sun's rays, which will sour milk quicker than placing on a hot stove.

Please arrange to take your milk in as soon as delivered.

The little girl was quickly picked up and carried into her home, where Dr. Waterworth was called to minister to her. The doctor found the little patient suffering from a badly bruised and lacerated face, while one of her shoulders was also badly bruised, but fortunately no bones were broken, it being the opinion of the physician that while the machine passed over her the wheels of the vehicle fortunately missed the body of the child.

The dirt from the street was ground into the little girl's face and she was taken to the hospital this morning for the purpose of having this dirt scraped out and X-ray pictures will also be taken to locate any possible injury not apparent to other examination.

For Pictures.

A picture that does not hang straight is a constant source of annoyance. Here is a way of hanging a small picture to prevent it from slipping. A loop will have been formed over the hook and this will prevent the cord from slipping.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick … and lustrous, and you appear … younger.

Curwensville's Own Column

Yesterday was show day at Clearfield and it was astonishing how many men there were in Curwensville that had grandchildren to be taken down to see the elephant and parade in general. Of course the old ducks had no interest in the show, but considered that as long as they were down there they might just as well go in and see the spangled dressed in tights girls perform.

Robinson & Son are the only contracting painters that have advanced a notch over their brush in hand contemporaries. They have added a painting machine and it does its work very satisfactorily. In eight hours time the machine will brush a side of a house as rapidly as eight men can do per hour using a hand brush. They have been working this painting machine for several months now, and not one single complaint has been heard from work by it.

Mr and Mrs. Jack Murphy expect to leave Curwensville early next week for a visit with relatives up in Canada. They expect to remain in the land of the Canuck for several months.

Report is revived that an effort will be made to pave North street and also several hundred feet of County street this summer sometime. This would indeed prove a tortious convenient and a great expense to those owning ground on the north side of said street, especially. All lots from Cemetery street to Filbert street are 195 feet in length, while all those on South Side are only 50 feet in length. There is a very small amount of traffic on this street only over a few unmitigated phools who won't run a machine faster than State street limit and they usually take the west end of North street to show off. We are told that this paving improvement scheme was started by the garage people at the east end of the street, who own or control less than a hundred feet of ground fronting North street. If in their imagination they opine that residents all along North street are going to sign a petition to Council for his work to be done for their especial benefit, why they have another guess coming that's all. If there are any improvements to be made in the street paving direction, Meadow street or Bloomington are the places it should be done, thoroughfares that are used four times to one on North street, and more during the wet and muddy season can be hardly traveled at all. No difference how long or heavy it rains, North street is always impassible by vehicles carrying heavy tonnage. If the garage people want a paved street along that North street line, let them do it as individuals.

Too bad that Curwensville has no established Boy's Scout troop at the present time. A few years ago the town had as good and active a troop as could be found anywhere in the western part of this State. While having in concert the lads did excellent work, and the town was proud of its Scouts. Handed down from one instructor to another, several of whom took no interest in their organization or work, the Scout members became discouraged and finally disbanded altogether. Is there not some resident in Curwensville today who will take an interest in the Boy Scout movement and re-organize the "Old Guard" and give them a general week or two outing in the woods under an instructor who knows all the "tricks of the trade" in Boy Scouting.

If ashes are an incentive of making good dirt roads, then Curwensville ought to have the best to be found in the county.

Many a man is sneaking around in the woods these days. The sound of a carpet beater hurts his ears.

J. R. Way and wife of Constantinople, Turkey, and his mother, Mrs J. C. Way, of Williamsport, are visiting the Gardlocks.

It has been talked around considerable that ere the school term for 1924-25 starts in St. Timothy Catholic church will have a parochial school of their own organized and that the Catholic children heretofore attending the public schools will be transferred to a school of their own. The Progress man up here thought that the rumor appeared sort of unreliable so he went to see Father Lynch, who is a conservative man in both religion and politics, and he informed us that there was nothing to the story whatever, and that his people had never broached the subject of establishing a parochial school in Curwensville and that his congregation were not in a position to do so financially, even tho they ever so much wished. He had no complaint to make of the manner in which our public schools were being conducted, and had he it in his power so to do he would compel every child of Catholic parentage in this town and neighborhood to be enrolled and forced to attend the public schools of Curwensville and elsewhere. Father Lynch has made a host of friends during his stay in this town, composed of all denominations, and he is surely what the westerners term a "he-man."

PORTER HARLEY PASSES AWAY

James Porter Harley died at his home on South Fourth street at 7:40 o'clock last evening, after an illness extending over a period of years, as the result of complications arising from heart trouble and hardening of the arteries.

The deceased, who was about 5 years of age, was a painter by trade having been employed by D. W. Spe for many years. He was an expert workman and an upright, honorable man, who lived for his home and those he loved. Quiet and unassuming, he was greatly respected by all who knew him for his sterling worth as a man and a good citizen.

He is survived by his widow and four daughters, Mrs. Catherine Rose Jerry, Edith, Helen and Jane, all at home. His mother, Mrs. James Mitchell, of Curwensville, also survives him.

The funeral will be held from his late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His pastor, Rev. E Roy Hauser, of St. John's Lutheran church, officiating. Interment will be made in Hillcrest cemetery.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

Movies Full Of "Hokum" But Producers Hold It Vital To Good Pictures

"Hokum" Is Analyzed as the Old "Melerdramer" Thrill Brought Up to Date—"Robin Hood" Cited as Movie Example.

By ROBERT A. DONALDSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Los Angeles, May 8.—The subject of "hokum" has taken Hollywood by storm.

Everyone is talking about hokum. Peter B. Kyne apparently put it on the map—when he blew off the lid and charged that the movies "are nothing but a lot of hokum."

Nobody is agreed on just what hokum is, but everyone admits that there's lots of it in the pictures. It appears to be the vitamen of the movie game.

For the past ten years the catch phrase of Hollywood has been "The industry is still in its infancy."

Today the catch line has been changed to "There is too much hokum in the movies."

Everett L. Warner, one of the eight Warner brothers, broke into print with it, and under such circumstances the statement is worthy of deep consideration, because if anybody should know about hokum it's the Warner Brothers.

Thomas Ince and Webster, of unabridged fame, both fail to define the term, but Ince at least volunteered the following comment:

Admits Hokum.

"Of course there is hokum in the movies. But it must not be forgotten that there is good hokum and bad hokum." Good hokum Ince modestly intimated, is the kind he produces.

William de Mille, who is rated as something of a psychologist, explained as follows:

"Hokum is anything that will produce a sure-fire, quick emotional reaction. The candle in the window and the mortgage on the old homestead are good examples of hokum."

Hokum, then, is nothing more than the old stock-in-trade of the five-ten-and-fifteen cent melodrama.

Hollywood also has discovered that what Mack Sennett has been doing all these years is producing pictures on hokum.

Sennett merely lays hokum on in such thick gobs that it becomes comedy. And, with Ben Turpin as star he is planning to take one of his most vicious pokes at hokum in his next picture, "Where Is My Wandering Boy This Evening."

More Hokum.

"Robin Hood is a masterpiece of noble hokum," recently declared Ted Taylor, former editor of "Camera," and a well known movie columnist. "People go wild over 'Robin Hood,' and only in rare instances do they come to and realize that such events, castles did not exist in Merrie England, or anywhere else."

But if "Robin Hood" is hokum, the public will probably rise up and cry "Give us more."

Anything, from history down to floating in the moat in heavy armor, can be forgiven for the charm and romance and glorious youth of Doug Fairbanks' picture. Like Brady O'Brien's "White Shadows in the South Seas," a veracity is willingly overlooked for the [illegible] work contains

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D. C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1529 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

He was an expert workman and an upright, honorable man, who lived for his home and those he loved. Quiet and unassuming, he was greatly respected by all who knew him for his sterling worth as a man and a good citizen.

He is survived by his widow and four daughters, Mrs. Catherine Rossberry, Edith, Helen and Jane, all at home. His mother, Mrs. James Mitchell, of Curwensville, also survives him.

The funeral will be held from his late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His pastor, Rev. E. Roy Hauser, of St. John's Lutheran church, officiating. Interment will be made in Hillcrest cemetery.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

Movies Full Of "Hokum" But Producers Hold It Vital To Good Pictures

"Hokum" Is Analyzed as the Old "Melerdramer" Thrill Brought Up to Date—"Tol'in Heon" Cited as Movie Example.

By ROBERT A. DONALDSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Los Angeles, May 8.—The subject of "hokum" has taken Hollywood by storm.

Everyone is talking about hokum. Peter B. Kyne apparently put it on the map when he blew off the lid and charged that the movies "are nothing but a lot of hokum."

Nobody is agreed on just what hokum is, but everyone admits that there's lots of it in the pictures. It appears to be the vitamen of the movie game.

For the past ten years the catch phrase of Hollywood has been "The industry is still in its infancy."

Today the catch line has been changed to "There is too much hokum in the movies."

Even H. L. Warner, one of the eight Warner brothers, broke into print with it, and under such circumstances the statement is worthy of deep consideration, because if anybody should know about hokum it's the Warner Brothers.

Thomas Ince and Webster, of unabridged fame, both fail to define the term, but Ince at least volunteered the following comment:

Admits Hokum.

"Of course there is hokum in the movies. But it must not be forgotten that there is good hokum and bad hokum." Good hokum, Ince modestly intimated, is the kind he produces.

William de Mille, who is rated as something of a psychologist, explained as follows:

"Hokum is anything that will produce a sure-fire, quick emotional reaction. The candle in the and the mortgage on the old homestead are good examples of hokum."

Hokum, then, is nothing more than the old stock-in-trade of the five-ten-and-fifteen cent melodrama.

Hollywood also has discovered that what Mack Sennett has been doing all these years is producing satires on hokum.

Sennett merely lays hokum on in such thick gobs that it becomes comedy. And, with Ben Turpin as star, he is planning to take one of his most vicious pokes at hokum in his next picture, "Where Is My Wandering Boy This Evening."

More Hokum.

"Robin Hood" is a masterpiece of optical hokum," recently declared Ted Taylor, former editor of "Camera," and a well known movie columnist. "People go wild over 'Robin Hood,' and only in rare instances do they come to and realize that sky scraping castles did not exist in Merrie England, or anywhere else."

But if "Robin Hood" is hokum, the public will probably rise up and cry "Give us more."

Anything, from history down to floating in the moat in heavy armor, can be forgiven for the charm and romance and glorious youth of Doug Fairbanks' picture. Like Frederic O'Brien's "White Shadows in the South Seas," a veracity is willingly overlooked for the 5 fine charm the work contains.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D. C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. Mother's Cook Book

The man who holds down the ladder at the bottom is frequently of just as much service as the man at the top. The mother in the home who is faithful to her duties is as invaluable as the bread winner outside.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A NICE little company sandwich which is different, and serves with a cup of cocoa or coffee will be enough for light refreshments is

Chicken Salad Rolls.

Mix one cupful of cooked chicken one cupful of chopped celery and one half cupful of chopped green olives with three tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing, seasoning highly with salt and cayenne. Cut small rolls into halves, remove the soft centers, spread with softened butter and fill with the salad; press the halves together or serve open with the tops garnished to suit the taste.

For the Cooky Jar.

Take one cupful of shortening, two cupfuls of sugar, two eggs, one cupful of milk, three and one-half cupfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of flavoring, a little salt and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix, chill and roll as thin as possible. Sprinkle the tops with sugar just before going into the oven. For variety cut with a doughnut cutter sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and add three halves of almonds, point to the center at equal distances. These are called sand tarts.

Raisin Butter Sandwiches.

Soften butter by working it with a spatula or wooden spoon until creamy. To one-half cupful of butter add one half cupful of finely chopped raisins and two tablespoonfuls of finely-minced candied ginger. Mix, and when of the right consistency spread on buttered bread. Serve with afternoon tea.

Porcupine Apples.

Select apples of uniform size and which will cook tender without losing their shape. To half a dozen apples prepare a syrup in which to cook them. When tender decorate with quartered blanched almonds, sticking them into the apple as thick as desired. Pour the syrup around the apples and bake until the nuts are lightly browned. Serve as dessert with cream. The centers may be filled with bright colored jelly and they may be arranged on a platter if desired with a spoonful of cream whipped stiff on each.

THE NEXT HURDLE

PRIDE in past achievement gives you confidence. But you can easily have too much of it.

Life is a good deal like a hurdle race. The next hurdle doesn't look so high when you have taken three or four like it. But it is the next hurdle, not the last one, that you must think about.

However gracefully you cleared the last one, your problem is getting over the one just ahead.

Take advantage of all the confidence you can get out of what you have done. But always remember that it is what is still to be done, that is going to count.

Napoleon irritated his boasting generals by answering their stories of battles won with the query, "And what did you do the next day?"

It is hard to be able to bask in the light of past accomplishments. Pleasant it is to sit back, after doing something difficult, and admire ourselves for doing it.

But life is like a moving sidewalk. You have got to keep up with it or get off. And we are all born with an instinct that prompts us powerfully not to get off.

Keep your eye on the next hurdle that is the hurdle that is of vital interest to you. It is the one on which you must concentrate all your courage and all your energies.

For if you don't get over it, you are out of the race, and all the hurdles you have taken before have gone for nothing.

If you have had a little success, make it a big success. Put the hurdle up a little higher. If you have done one job well, find a tougher job, and do that better.

That is what makes progress, and progress is necessary to the prosperity and happiness of every human being just as it is necessary to the prosperity and happiness of the whole human race.

There will be plenty of hurdles to take. But when you have taken one make ready for another. For success is just one hurdle after another, and the man who takes them as they come is the man who wins out.

CLAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A MAN, they say, is made of clay;
Undoubtedly it's true.
But then one finds so many kinds
Of clay—now haven't you?
Along the creeks are yellow streaks
Of clay that wouldn't do.

I know the mushy sort of slush
Would never make a man;
He'd fall apart before you start,
Would crumble in the pan.
That's not the ditch of clay in which
Humanity began.

And in the yard is clay so hard,
So shrivelled up and dry,
So rough and cold with musty mold
And full of alkali
No love nor wit could soften it—
You wouldn't even try.

But there is clay beside the way
That's solid yet will bend,
That gives and takes—the kind that makes
A fellow and a friend,
That once you choose, you never lose,
That holds until the end.

So don't begin with clay too thin,
Nor start with clay too thick.
The plastic kind you'll always find
The best to do the trick.
Just add a hand of good, old sand—
And then you'll have a brick!

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

THE STEP BEYOND

JUST a step beyond the barriers which have so long defied us, and we are sure of our ground, certain of realizing our fondest hopes, and marching on and on with the victors.

The thought tarills us with elation, but how hard it is to make the final stride when we are worn and weary.

Human nature is prone to lose courage when the chase is tiresome.

It inclines to become disheartened when carefully worked out plans and calculations fail immediately to produce anticipated results.

The fatal fault with most of us is lack of patience, coupled with an inclination to be governed by impulse rather than reason at the turning moment when everything is dependent on calmness and firmness of purpose.

We incline to haste when we should go slowly and take accurate account of our energy, where we should conserve it, that our minds may not be filled with fear and finally overcome with sickening apprehension.

In business, as in love, most of our miserable failures result from our refusal to consider seriously the step beyond.

For some paltry reason, a whim of the fancy, or a laxity of activity, we find ourselves at the crucial moment weary of the chase.

So we sit in the inviting shade of a friendly nook, while our more ambitious rivals steal a march upon us and capture the prize, only a step beyond our impatient reach.

The blame is our own. But the truth never penetrates our souls until the clear perspective of years gives us a sharper vision which enables us to see our folly.

It is not until then that we fully understand our shortcomings.

To make amends for our own deficiencies, we proceed to pass around advice to our intimates, which, as a rule, falls on barren ground. They know us!

There is but a step between success and failure, likewise but a step between hope and despair. When the occasion comes for action very few of us, alas, know how to make the step, though it is inviting and has an air of simplicity.

And yet there is probably no other movement more vitally important to man's future success than the step just beyond.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"PLUCK"

EXCEPT as a synonym for courage, pluck appears to have little in common with the words which are derived from the French root-word "coeur," meaning "heart" but, in reality, they are very closely allied, having their parentage in the old belief that the heart is the seat of bravery. "Courage" and "courageous" both bear testimony to this belief, having come down to us by way of the French, while "pluck" is essentially Anglo-Saxon and was formerly the slang term for the entrails of an ox or steer. When the butcher laid open the carcass of the animal he would divide the great arteries leading to the heart, out through the windpipe, and then lift or pluck out the heart and lungs, referring to the entire mass as "the pluck."

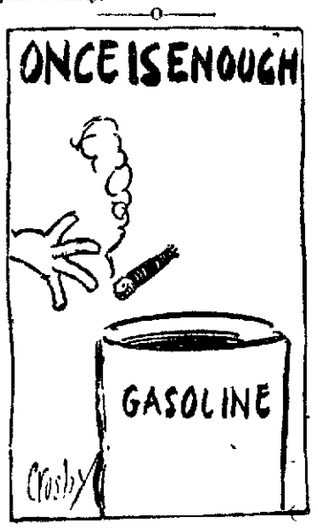

Merely as an indication of the comparative infancy of the word, Sir Walter Scott wrote in his journal in 1827 that a certain man was "wanting in that article which is blackguardedly called 'pluck.'" For a number of decades past, however, the word has been sanctioned by the best usage in English and this butcher's colloquialism has taken its place alongside the aristocratic words of the language.

GOOD CARE OF RASPBERRIES

Canes Should Be Cut Back in Spring to Desired Fruiting Height—Look for Disease.

The New York experiment station has sent out a circular on care of raspberries.

With the close of the fruiting season horticulturists at the experiment station at Geneva are recommending the removal and destruction of the fruiting canes in all raspberry plantings. These old canes are no longer needed by the bush and they may harbor disease organisms or insect pests which might infest the new growth. The removal of the old canes will also give more room for new growth the next season.

In the spring the canes of red raspberries should be cut back to a desired fruiting height, usually three or four feet from the ground, depending on the vigor of the bush. Black raspberries require more severe pruning than the red varieties as the old fruiting canes should be removed and the new growth checked in the summer by pinching off the succulent tips of the new canes at about two feet from the ground. Since the new canes do not all grow at the same time it is necessary to go over the bushes several times during the summer. In the spring the side branches which have developed as a result of this summer pruning should be cut back from one-third to one-half their length.

Raspberry growers are urged to be on the lookout for plants affected with mosaic or yellows and to remove and destroy all such plants, including the roots and suckers, as that is the only way in which the disease can be stamped out. The mosaic is characterized by the mottled appearance of the leaves and the dwarfing of the canes. In setting out new plants care should be exercised that only disease-free stock is used as any part of a diseased plant will bring the disease into the patch where it will gradually spread to healthy plants.

AVOID SUNSCALD IN WINTER

If Alternate Freezing and Thawing Continues Bark on Exposed Side of Tree Dies.

Just from the sound of the name one would think sunscald a summer trouble in the orchard. It is true the hot sun in summer, especially in some regions, may cause the trouble, but sunscald may occur in its worst form in winter, as well.

During many winter days, the sun's heat may warm up the southern or southwestern sides of trunks and branches to the thawing point. At night the wood freezes again. If this alternate freezing and thawing continues for any considerable length of time, the bark on the exposed side of the tree will die and split off. The broken bark offers a point of entrance for fungus tree diseases of many kinds which may ultimately kill the tree.

Where conditions are especially bad it will pay to shade the southwest portions of the trunk and branches. Cornstalks, straw or similar material bound about the branches will give excellent protection.

SPRAY TO CONTROL INSECTS

Use of Lead Arsenate When About 90 Per Cent of Blossoms Have Fallen, Is Urged.

It will still be worth while for owners of peach trees to spray for the control of curculio and other insects. The best spray for this purpose is lead arsenate, using one and a half pounds in 50 gallons of water and applying when about 90 per cent of the blossoms have fallen.

GET RID OF WATER SPROUTS

Rubbing Off in Spring After Heavy Pruning Will Save Much Needed Nourishment.

After heavy pruning is done in the spring, especially in the case of apple trees, there is an unusual growth of water sprouts. These may be readily rubbed off with the hand, thus saving nourishment which otherwise would go into water sprouts. Getting rid of water sprouts now also will save time in pruning later.

The SANDMAN STORY

HENPECKED ROOSTER

ONE day Mr. Rooster said to his wife, "My dear, I am going on a little excursion with Mr. Drake. He said he will show me a bit of the world I have not seen."

Biddy was a very wise creature, and having lived for some time she knew when to give advice to her husband and when to keep silent, but this was one of the times she felt she must speak.

"I would not go far away with Mr. Drake, my dear," she said. "You know you cannot stand the weather as he can and it looks to me like rain."

"Oh, bother," crowed Mr. Rooster. "can't you see the weather is fine, and besides Mr. Drake told me this was sure to be a fine day and he ought to know; he is older than we are."

Mr. Rooster Went Along.

"It may be a fine day for ducks," replied Biddy, "but not for hens and roosters. Better not go far away."

"Come along, don't let your wife boss you, Mr. Rooster," said Mr. Drake, who had just waddled along. "I never let my wives tell me what to do, and I have had several; it is going to be a fine day, I tell you."

Mr. Rooster lifted his head higher and strutted off with Mr. Drake down the road; the sun was shining and there were plenty of worms and bugs to be found, and though the sky did look dark once in a while Mr. Drake assured him that the weather was sure to keep fine, so Mr. Rooster went along where Mr. Drake led him.

The first thing he knew he was in the woods and the rain was pattering on the leaves. "Guess I better run home," he said.

"Oh, this is fine weather," said Mr. Drake. "Don't be frightened by a little rain. You rest under this tree and I will take a swim on the pond. I do love a swim when it is raining."

So off went Mr. Drake, leaving Mr. Rooster all dripping wet under the tree and feeling very unhappy, and he wished very much he had listened to his wife and stayed near the barnyard.

By and by the lightning flashed and the thunder rolled and down came the rain as if poured from a pail.

Mr. Rooster started for home soaked to the skin, and when he crept under the barnyard gate his wife, who was peeking out from under some bushes, saw him. "What did I tell you?" she said. "I knew just how it would be. Now you come right into the house and dry those wet clothes and get into bed.

"I'll put your feet in hot water and give you ginger tea and wrap you up in a blanket and the next time Mr. Drake wants to go on an excursion tell him to take some one that likes wet weather," and she gave him a sharp peck to let him know she meant it.

Biddy talked so fast that Mr. Rooster could not get in a word edgeways, and he didn't have anything to say anyway, so he meekly obeyed, and that was how he became a henpecked husband for after that when Mr. Rooster started to do anything his wife did not like she had only to say, "Remember your trip with Mr. Drake," and give him a peck with her bill and the question was settled the way Mrs. Biddy wanted it.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

CAROLINE

IT'S a curious fact that some heroes lose, rather than gain, popularity, when their deeds are recorded in romance. Such was the case of the famous Karl of the Franks, who is responsible for the origin of the feminine name Caroline. The great emperor has suffered at the hands of romantic chroniclers, but history preserved the memory of "Carlo Magno," and from his name came a long series of masculine and feminine names.

The first feminine translation known is Carlota. This name was synonymous with Charlotte in those early times, and, indeed, Charlotte and the Caroline of today are almost interchangeable, if their origin is to be observed, no matter how separate and distinct they seem to be. Charlotte, or Carlota, of Savoy married Louis XI and introduced the name to French royalty. Charlotte Albret had the misfortune to be given in marriage to Cesare Borgia and had one daughter, who married into the house of La Tremouille, whence the brave Lady Derby carried it into England.

The Huguenotism of that house connected it with the house of Bouillon, whose heiress, Carola, or Charlotte, was married in 1588. There the house of Orange derived it and it became known in Germany and was brought to England in its full popularity by the good queen of George III. It gained sentimental vogue and an international fame through Goethe, who chose the name for his heroine of "Werther."

The first Caroline was evolved in Italy, but was quickly adopted by southern Germany and in turn brought to England by the wife of George II, who made it extremely popular among the nobility. America received it first through the Carolinas (North and South), and its fame and popularity as a feminine proper name spread rapidly.

Caroline has numberless derivatives and contractions. England calls her Charlotte, Lotty, Chatty, Caroline and Carrie. In France she is Carolina, Charlotte and Lottie. Carlota and Lola are purely Spanish and Carlotta and Carolina are the Italian versions. Germany preserves the original preference for Charlotte, Carolina and Lina.

Caroline's talismanic gem is the diamond. It promises her faithful love if she is married it will enhance the love of her husband, but it should never be purchased, as it is only potent when it is a gift. Her lucky day is Saturday and 1 is her lucky number.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

MONEY IN THE HAND

INHERITANCE of money being always interesting, especially to those who look forward to receiving a legacy, it is well to note what the hand has to say on the subject. Note whether the top phalanx of the finger of Jupiter (the forefinger) bears on the inside, toward the other fingers, a deep vertical line. If the same finger has a number of short, horizontal lines crossing the bottom phalanx, it is also the sign of the inheritance of money.

Next, inspect the rascette, or bracelet, at the wrist. If there is a well-marked, small cross there, money will come to the fortunate possessor of the cross, through inheritance.

Of all the signs of the inheritance of money, however, the strongest is a line running from a star on the mount of Venus (the ball of the thumb) to the middle of the plain of Mars, the "hollow" of the hand. This indicates a large inheritance.

TABLE DECORATIONS

It is a bad plan that admits of no modifications.—Publius Syrus.

IT HAS been said that decorative flowers are even more important in the arrangement of the dinner table than the knives and forks; and true it is that the wise hostess takes as much thought in arranging her centerpiece as in seeing that the silver is freshly polished and properly arranged.

A fat pocketbook is not the only thing needed to make a tasteful floral arrangement on the dinner table. In fact, one need have very little money to spend in order to make an attractive and tasteful arrangement. An over-elaborate arrangement is no longer in good taste. Towering floral structures that really look like nothing so much as the "set pieces" that the florists prepare for far less joyous occasions are really quite bad, and the careful hostess does not leave the matter to the florist, but makes sure that something very simple in arrangement is selected. Except for a children's party or a dinner that is to be given in a spirit of extreme informality, paper decorations are not in good taste either. A cluster of roses or any other hothouse or garden flowers attractively arranged in a glass or silver vase is a charming selection. The addition of ferns or smilax adds to the effectiveness. The vase may be placed either on a bit of embroidered or lace-trimmed linen or on a mirror that reflects the flowers and candles so as to add to the general effectiveness of the arrangement.

A short time ago some of the shops offered for sale rather splendid-looking centerpiece devices that combined a vase placed at the center of a silver standard and little bonbon or salted nut baskets that were hung up on the silver brackets that came out from the standard on all sides. This was rather a clever arrangement, but it was not in the best taste, for nowadays we do not use food as part of the center decoration, as was the case when wonderful centerpieces were made of spun sugar and pastry. The only exception to this rule is in favor of choice fruits occasionally combined with the flowers.

Brainy Girl Has Edge on Girl With Shapely Figure

New York Business Offers Trained Young Women Better Opportunities and More Future Than Show Girls, Employment Expert Says.

New York, N. Y. May 3. (United Press.—While New York theatrical managers are clamoring for girls with "figures" New York business men are clamoring no less insistently for girls with brains. Plenty of the former are available, but there is a distinct shortage of the latter, J. J. McLaughlin, general manager of the American Employment Exchange, declares.

There is more money for the girl with brains in business than there is for the average show girl, McLaughlin stated. Likewise there is more of a future for the average business girl than there is for the average show girl, he holds.

White collar workers are in great demand now due to the expansion in business, he said. The chief need is for capable young women.

"The thoroughly trained and capable young women on whom the business world of today is learning more and more to depend, is not being developed in sufficiently large numbers to keep pace with the demand," McLaughlin said.

"Recent requests for stenographers to fill positions carrying secretarial and executive duties seldom specify, "We want a young man." Calls for male stenographers at salaries in excess of $25 weeky are now only as one to four compared with the demand for women workers. The stenographical duties of such workers are only a minor part of the tasks with which they are entrusted. Not infrequently they enter upon posts where they have at least one and often several assistants. Such positions pay these women from $30 to $50 a week and often more.

"We have found no difficulty in meeting the tremendous increase 1923 has brought in the demand for office help, except in the case of the experienced and highly efficient woman, to whom a working knowledge of stenography is only one accomplishment. If more women who are endowed with executive ability and who now are devoting their time and talents to positions in which the remuncration is limited would take up the study of stenography and secretarial work and would train themselves accordingly to fill these positions of trust, that are simply clamoring for them, they might greatly better themselves.

"Thus equipped, they should find little trouble in finding situations where their talents would be better utilized, and where they could command far better pay than they get as saleswomen, head clerks or in like capacities. The pronounced lack of this kind of material at present is serious. It puts a brake on the wheels of the business advance. It costs the busy executive not only much annoyance but also great waste of time trying out clerical help which either through limitations of education and training or through other personal disqualifications, are incapable of rising to the requirements of these higher clerical posts."

The era of the girl with brains and business training is here, McLaughlin stated.

The girl from out in the country who is ambitious to succeed in New York no longer need turn her eyes to the girl shows, where shapely ankles and figures count the most, he holds.

"Business beckons to her," McLaughlin said.

HIGH MORTALITY OF CHICKS

Knowledge, Care and Good Judgment Required to Bring Little Fellows to Maturity.

There is no doubt about the statement that if the mortality among young chicks could be averted and the per cent that dies be brought to maturity, the poultry industry would be one of the largest, if not the largest, in the country. Thousands upon thousands die each year from improper attention to the youngsters after hatching, and thousands fail to hatch from inexperience in handling incubators. To begin with, all eggs should be tested before placing in an incubator or under hens. If this be done only good, strong germ eggs would be used, and those showing defects would be rejected and sent to market for table use. Special attention should be given incubators to see that the thermometer registers just right, and also note that you have the required moisture. Incubators should be started at 101 degrees, 102 second week, and if the batch is good the thermometer will sometimes go as high as 105 degrees the third week. Those chicks which hatch on the night of the nineteenth day or early on the twentieth will be pretty apt to live, as they were good, strong, 100 per cent fertile eggs. Those that hatch later range in vitality from 50 per cent to 80 per cent. The 100 per cent birds thrive and mature to be standard weight. Those under that die beginning the third day, and sometimes string out for two or three months.

...ly of Sturdy Little Chicks, Well Cared For.

POULTRY SELECTION IS BEST

One of Quickest and Surest Ways of Making Improvement in Flock—Quality Counts.

One of the quickest and surest ways of getting improvement in poultry is through selection. Too many people have quantity, to the exclusion of quality, in mind. If you want increased production, it would be much better to have six producing birds in a pen with a male from a high producing female than to have a breeding pen of 200 females mated to a bunch of males of unknown origin.

VITAMINES FINE FOR LAYERS

Milk and Green Succulent Plant Growths Are Essential for Hens—Sour Milk Also Good.

Laying hens need vitamines, undoubtedly, and other elements which are found in certain specific types of foods such as milk and green succulent plant growths. The use of sour skim-milk has long been recognized as a splendid supplement to the grain and mash. Feed it in open pans, providing free access, if it can be secured at a reasonable price. Use semisolid buttermilk at the rate of 3 to 5 pounds to 100 hens per day.

POULTRY NOTES

A hungry hen is usually a good layer.

Environment is a great factor in egg production.

Extreme cold and extreme heat alike affect the flow of eggs.

A turkey five months old is as good as raised, but do not be in a hurry about fattening.

* * *

No flock of fowls can produce a high average egg yield per year per fowl unless there has been bred into that flock the capacity to use large amounts of food, respond to proper care and environment, and form eggs.

* * *

Nearly all the eggs are laid between the hours of nine o'clock in the morning and three o'clock in the afternoon.

* * *

The care of the newly hatched chicks is without question the most exacting task that devolves upon the poultryman or poultrywoman.

* * *

As the seasons vary, the time when chicks may be put on range will vary also. There is danger of getting the chicks out too early unless well protected.

How to Dress to Please Men

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor for the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

New York, May 4.—Opinion has it that women dress to please men. If this be true, many women certainly made a mess of their attempt. Men are simple creatures, after all, and most of them do not know an exquisite gown from a cheap one. There is but one thing which catches their childish eyes—femininity in dress. They like colors and dainty effects which are entirely foreign to their own sombre apparel.

How many times we see some brainless, little doll dressed in ribbons and feminine fol-de-rol holding the attention of a staid business man. Her gown is one that would perhaps be censured by the discriminating eyes of her sex, but the man sees only its color and feminine attractiveness. His heart-strings are made of lace and the girl who holds them in her dainty hands shuns everything masculine in her attire and plays up to her womanly instincts.

Mannish Girl Taboo

It isn't often that the girl in mannish attire is sought after by the male sex, yet many girls go even so far as to wear stiff collars and cuffs and mannish ties with their tailored suits. Needless to say, they have about as much chance with the average man as a man with a lace handkerchief would have with a woman. Suits that are made of mannish tweeds and cut on masculine lines do not attract the average man, nor do sports shoes, which are made so similar to his own. If all women wore sports shoes and woolen stockings there would be few "ankle gazers" about, for the minute a woman ceases to be feminine in her attire she ceases to be a mystery to men.

Clothes need not be expensive to attract men, for men haven't the slightest idea of what clothes cost. They will, however, know whether your collar is made of stiff linen or of dainty lace and they will know whether the blue of your hat is the exact shade of your eyes. It is always the feminine touch that appeals to them. Clothes that are absolutely foreign to those men wear are certain to attract their attention.

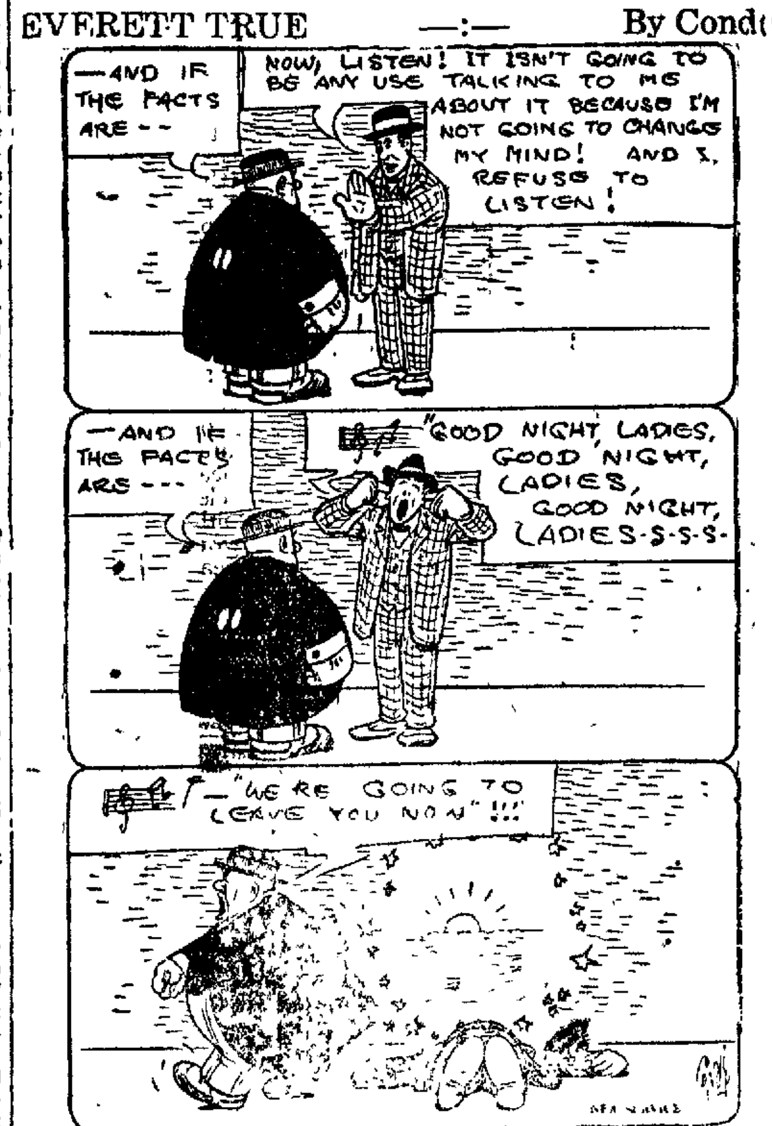

Daintiness Necessary

Bizarre effects in dress appeal to certain men, but these men are not those who could be inveigled into mowing their own laws and drying the supper dishes for the gingham-aproned wife, so it is unwise to play up to them.

It is easy enough for the woman of means to assume daintiness in her dress. The business girl finds the task more tedious as she is forced to wear sensible, business-like clothing, but it is especially important for the girl who works side by side with men to hold a "robe of femininity" about her lest she lose her feminine entity althogether. This does not mean that the business girl should go to work in chiffons and bright colors, but she mustn't sacrifice her feminine attractiveness by wearing too severely cut clothing. There are always daint collars and trimmings by which she can modify the somberness of a dark business dress. There should always be some concession made to girlish charm in her attire.

Though gallant men passed with the lace kerchiefs and fans of our grandmothers' days, the spirit of the gallant lies dormant in every man and needs but the touch of feminine vanities of dress to revive it.

Cause of Poor Spelling.

Poor spelling even among the well-educated is due largely to poor eyesight in the early life of the individual. OPEN CAR LUXURY; ENCLOSED AUTO IS A REAL NECESSITY

That the open car is daily becoming more of a luxury while the enclosed car is becoming more of a necessity is the claim of Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company.

"People who have grown tired of driving open cars under unpleasant weather conditions are now entering the closed car field by the thousand through the purchase of low priced two door enclosed cars," says Mr. Jordan, "and once having experienced the greater comfort and convenience that the average closed car offers over the average open car, they will continue to want that type.

"But there is already a marked tendency toward a more convenient compact, four door enclosed car which is a combination of the small two door type and the larger, more cumbersome sedan.

"The Jordan factory is now running 60 per cent of its production on closed cars, with the new four door brougham scheduled at the rate of 30 a day."

Leaning Tower of Pisa.

Campanile or bell tower, better known as the leaning tower of Pisa, was completed in 1350 by Tommaso Pisano. It has six tiers of pillars and is 179 feet in height, with a deviation from the perpendicular of fourteen feet, which, according to all reports, resulted from an earthquake which occurred while the tower was being built.

Equal Bird Rights.

Homing pigeons probably are closer to the human family than any other form of winged life. The birds have remarkable intelligence, says Nature magazine. They mate in pairs and the female of each union has exercised her right of suffrage to the extent that the male helps her in hatching out the eggs and in caring for and feeding the young.

This One Your Friend.

As far as its economic status is concerned the Phoebe makes an ideal neighbor, says Nature Magazine. This bird's diet consists of 90 per cent animal food and 10 per cent vegetable matter. The major part of the insects taken are injurious species.

Rotterdam has the highest house in the country. It is known as the American skyscraper and is actually seven stories high. It is built of porcelain tiles and stands upon piles. OLAND IN "EAST IS WEST" SUCCESSFUL AS CHINAMEN

Difficult as it is for an American actor to make up as a Chinaman, it is a still harder task for an actor who must be photographed in scenes in which he appears with several real Chinamen, with slant eyes, pig tails and the inscrutability of the true Oriental.

Nevertheless this difficult feat is accomplished with signal success by four well known actors appearing in support of Constance Talmadge, the brilliant screen star, in "East Is West," a First National attraction which will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday at the Driggs theatre.

To Warner Oland falls the finest part as Charlie Yong, the Americanized Chinaman who covets Ming Toy. This role was one of the most prominent in the play "East Is West" during its run of two seasons on the speaking stage of Broadway. Mr. Oland makes it equally significant on the screen.

"Western Reserve."

When Connecticut, in 1786, ceded her western lands to the United States, she reserved a large tract adjoining Pennsylvania, now forming several counties in the northeastern part of Ohio. From this the region came to be called "the Western Reserve." The reservation by Connecticut only lasted a few years, as in 1800 she completed the transfer of all the lands to the United States. The Western Reserve soon became famous for its good citizenship, fine farms and determined opposition to slavery.
